Report Says FCC Officials Accept Industry 'Favors'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today a secret staff memorandum to a House subcommittee charges members of the Federal Communications Commission with illegally accepting industry favors.

A Washington dispatch to the Times said the memorandum also accuses some commissioners of fraternizing with lititants.

The Times reported that the 28-page memorandum was prepared by Dr. Bernard Schwartz, 35, chief counsel of the special subcommittee on legislative oversight and professor of law at New York University.

The Schwartz memorandum cited several examples of alleged personal misconduct on the part of FCC commissioners.

The memorandum did not name any of the commissioners it accused of wrongdoing.

Among the criticisms:

* * *

1. A COMMISSIONER was fully reimbursed by the industry for expenses for himself and his wife in attending an industry convention at which he delivered an address. The commissioner also claimed and received government travel pay in addition to a $12-a-day expense allowance.

2. Members have engaged in "constant fraternization" with persons and corporations appearing as litigants before the FCC. The "fraternization" has included payment of hotel and entertainment bills.

3. The FCC, in disregard of the standards set for granting television licenses, showed a "disturbing" tendency to favor the large established company with extensive broadcast interests over the "small newcomer without established broadcasting interests."

4. In many instances the FCC, in granting applications for stations, "held against local owners and preferred applicants wholly owned by outside interests."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Columbus Dispatch said today that Washington sources confirm the possibility that either the Army or Air Force may be planning an anti-aircraft missile base in Pickaway County.

Pennsy Rail Income Drops By 54 Pct.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad, America's biggest rail carrier, is currently operating at a loss.

In fact profits for 1957 were less than half those earned in 1956, directors of the railroad reported.

The PRR reported a net income of $19,056,855 last year, equivalent to $1.45 a share, compared with $41,545,435, and $3.16 a share in 1956.

This is $22,488,550, or about 54 per cent, less.

President James M. Symes told the directors the "PRR is currently operating at a loss and probably will be in the red in February as this month usually is a poor one at normal levels of business."

Symes said the big drop in profits was reflected in two successive deficit months — November and December.

The deficit last month was $1,205,393 compared with a profit of $3,324,481 for December, 1956.

The November loss was $1,029,453 compared with a profit of $1,565,456 in November, 1956.

It was the first December since 1946 that the PRR lost money instead of making it, and also the first November deficit in 20 years and the first month the PRR went into the red since March, 1954.

Since its incorporation in 1854 the Pennsylvania never has failed to declare at least one dividend during the course of a year. Last year four dividends were paid, totaling $1.25.

Postman Rescues Dogs from Canal

AKRON (AP)—A week ago a dog bit Orlando Moore, 34, a mail carrier, and chewed up his trousers.

But Moore, who owns a cocker spaniel himself, holds no grudge against "man's best friend." He proved this on his route Wednesday. When he spotted two boxers floundering on ice cakes in the Ohio Canal, he shed his coat and mailbag, got two ladders to make an escape bridge.

After he had crawled back to the canal bank, two fire department units arrived to help.

Ouster of Venezuelan Chief Marred By Wild Celebrations, Bloodshed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Marcos Perez Jimenez fled from Venezuela today but new bloodshed marred the wild public jubilation which followed the dictator's downfall.

National guardsmen opened fire on a crowd which moved on its headquarters to release political prisoners ordered freed by a military junta which took over the government. An unknown number of persons were reported killed and others were wounded.

The junta rushed two tanks to the guard headquarters to stop the firing. It appealed to the people to clear the area around the guard headquarters so the release of the prisoners could proceed without disturbances.

Perez Jimenez took to his heels after a brief but bloody civilian uprising in which the military finally joined.

The junta at once began restoring some of the liberties the dictatorship of nearly 10 years had suppressed.

In addition to freedom for all political prisoners it ordered all officers who took part in the short-lived New Year's revolt restored to their ranks. Punishments against them were cancelled.

Censorship was lifted.

Political exiles abroad made plans to return to their homeland.

Celebrating thousands jammed the streets of Caracas, in cars and trucks and on foot. They cheered wildly, waved Venezuelan flags and honked horns. Flag - waving students, the most publicly vocal of the ousted dictator's opponents, congregated in front of the statue of Simon Bolivar, the South American liberation hero.

The government radio network appealed repeatedly for the crowds to return to work and clear the streets "so that the political prisoners may have a clear path when they are liberated."

Perez Jimenez, dictator of the oil-rich country for nearly 10 years, took off from La Carlota Airport at 3:08 a. m.

Officials in Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, said the deposed president and his family arrived there today aboard a military plane.

He left behind an estimated 100 dead and hundreds injured in two days of rioting and clashes between antigovernment demonstrators and troops and police.

This lineup was announced for the new governing junta: Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, president; Air Force Col. Abel Romero Villate, Army Col. Roberto Casanova, national guard Col. Carlos Luis Araque and Col. Pedro Jose Quevedo for the military institutes.

The overthrow of Perez Jimenez followed a brief air force revolt New Year's Day, ensuing weeks of mounting tension and student demonstrations, a general strike which began Tuesday and the violence of the last two days.

Opposition to the president had grown increasingly open since he sought to prolong his rule for five more years by a plebiscite Dec. 15 in which he was the only candidate.

As the first ballot box was being opened, Interior Minister Laureano Vallenilla Lanz announced that Perez Jimenez's reelection was "overwhelming."

One Command Uniform Urged

Gen. Clay Tells Probers His Military Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay proposed today that U. S. military forces be drastically reorganized with all major commanders in the same uniform and under a single chief.

The retired World War II Army general said single control is necessary because "no future commander is going to fight a war with the weapons of one service."

Clay said the present joint chiefs of staff, the group that includes top service commanders, now is "just another committee" and they should serve only as advisers.

In advance of Clay's statement, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said "we must tighten our belts and do more perhaps for years to come" to surpass Russia in missiles and satellite.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and senior Republican on the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, said that "there is no blinking away from the enormity of the task we face.

"We must strengthen our forces-in-being. We must advance the availability date of quantities of new, more powerful weapons. We must prosecute a vigorous space program."

The subcommittee was told by Secretary of Defense McElroy that he expects to have an administration reorganization plan ready for congressional action during the current session.

McElroy, who testified behind closed doors, drew praise from Sen. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader of the Senate, who has been critical of what he has called the lack of a "sense of urgency" in the administration.

Chicago Firemen Tracking Explosive Fuel Mixture

CHICAGO (AP) — A house-to-house search enveloped a West Side area when fire officials learned 1,300 gallons of an explosive gasoline-fuel oil mixture was mistakenly sold to scores of residents as stove fuel.

By late Wednesday night, nervous residents had turned in 950 gallons at a central receiving station manned by firemen.

No explosions were reported, but Harry Mohr, deputy chief fire marshal, warned "a great potential for explosion" existed.

The fuel was purchased by residents of a densely populated low-rent district who live in flats mostly heated by space stoves.

Some 200 firemen, policemen and civil defense volunteers conducted the search, knocking on doors and broadcasting warnings with loud speakers mounted on fire trucks.

* * *

MOHR SET UP his headquarters in a Martin Oil Co. station which sold the mixture. He checked off on a map each block of the four-square-mile area as police reported its residents had been warned.

Martin officials could not explain how the accident occurred. It was discovered when an official smelled gasoline fumes from a wholesale dealer's truck which had supposedly been filled with fuel oil.

Most of the oil was sold in 5-and 10-gallon quantities and the names of customers were unknown.

Mohr said an investigation was underway to discover how the gasoline and oil were mixed. He said both were stored in large underground tanks and that "someone" probably pumped gasoline into the wrong tank.

Clevelander, 94, Freed from Pen

COLUMBUS (AP)—John Morgan, at 94, started a new life today.

Morgan is being released from Ohio Penitentiary. He will have a new suit, bus ticket to Cleveland and some $300 that has accumulated in his "personal account" at the penitentiary.

Convicted in 1928 of the slaying of a Cleveland junk dealer, he was sentenced to life imprisonment. After being turned down 10 times by the parole board, he was granted freedom at the 11th hearing.

Morgan has maintained his innocence in the slaying of Jacob Rosenberg in the victim's basement in Cleveland.

Girl Assists Cops in Grab Of Lensman

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Billy Joe Bryson, handsome, 21-year-old father of two from Chesapeake, Ohio, Rt. 1, was jailed Wednesday night. Police said they trapped him in a motel room pretending to take pictures of a 16-year-old Huntington girl posed on a bed in a swim suit.

Bryson was formally charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Asst. Prosecutor Keith L. Newman said the girl was at the motel on U. S. 60 east of Huntington only to help state police make the arrest. He said a trap was set as a part of an investigation of complaints which authorities had been receiving from parents for the past two months.

Newman said parents told the county prosecutor's office that their attractive daughters had been receiving telephone calls from a man who offered them $25 to pose in the nude or $15 if they donned extra scanty swim suits.

One mother displayed a photo of her daughter in the nude, which she said she found in a dresser drawer, but like other parents she declined to aid in efforts to arrest the photographer, Newman said. The daughter refused to say who made the picture, he added.

Finally a mother and daughter, the girl who played the decoy Wednesday night, agreed to cooperate with officers, the girl arranging to meet the man.

Newman said they found Bryson pretending to photograph the girl with a camera that had no film in it and no flashgun attached.

Hollywood TV Station Ready For 'Subliminal Perception'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In a couple of months some strapping young chap may spring from his chair in front of the TV, grab his coat and streak down town to join the Army—without knowing why.

Well, it may be a simple case of subliminal perception.

This hard-to-pronounce combination is actually nothing more than a somewhat creepy device for sneaking things into your head without your conscious knowledge.

Television station KTLA here says that in 60 days or so it will become th efirst station in the country to undertake a planned program of sublimal communication.

To pull the trick off, the station will employ special transmitting equipment that will flash an image or a message across the screen. It will be on and off so fast that the home viewer won't consciously know he's seen anything. But, if it works, the flash will leave an impression in his mind.

Lew Arnold, KTLA's general manager, said the gimmick will be used at first only for public service messages. He elaborated: "We'll flash on something like 'Join the Army' or 'Give to the March of Dimes.'

"The next step would be to promote our own shows. Then—and I have a feeling this is a long way off—we might go into the commercial end of it."

Would it be fair, Arnold was asked, to subject people to subtle mental stimuli that would send them flying off to the drugstore for toothpaste they didn't need?

"Gee, I lon't know," he said.

But he added that the Federal Communications Commission is going to study the new device and "if they say we can't use it, naturally we won't."

Arnold said his station won't spring the thing on its viewers without giving them a chance to duck.

"Before we put it on," he said, "we'll say: 'We're about to transmit a subliminal message.' "

Living Yeast Slated As Space 'Passenger'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to send some living organisms into outer space. A few yeast cells will be aboard one or more of the test satellites U. S. scientists hope to launch soon.

A Navy spokesman said the yeast would be enclosed in a tiny instrumented container inside the satellite, and that the experiment might provide data on the reaction of life outside the earth's atmosphere.

Ohio Farmers' Corn Share Dips Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio corn farmers will receive $13,126,800 as their share of the $174,600,000 alloted for corn producers under the 1958 soil bank plan.

This was more than $1 million less than the $14,396,714 alloted Ohio corn growers under the 1957 plan.

UAW Demands Profit Share

Auto Union Delegates Back Reuther Proposal

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, in a special convention today, overwhelmingly approved Walter P. Reuther's proposal to make a profit-sharing plan the union's main bargaining goal in 1958. The UAW president announced the vote on a show of hands carried by 90 per cent.

The UAW president appeared confident that he had ample strength among the 3,000 delegates to win approval of the plan. It would give auto workers a one-quarter slice of a company's profits over 10 per cent on net capital before taxes.

In an hourlong opening debate on the plan, the redhaired labor chief bristled at a delegate's suggestion that it "appears we're serving as a rubber stamp."

The criticism came from Lewis H. Michener of Long Beach, Calif. He said in the 1958 bargaining program should have been worked out in the convention instead of being publicized before the delegates convened.

Reuther retorted, "We only told you our thinking. The companies rejected our thinking. We could have been criticized justly if we had not given you time to think it over."

* * *

REUTHER announced that General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice had rejected the union's invitation to address the convention on what he believed should be its bargaining goals this spring.

Earlier, in keynoting the convention, Reuther said, "Mr. Curtice was the first to reply rejecting our proposal. He said it was foreign to the free enterprise system. He said it would undermine confidence. I fail to understand how giving every GM worker 30.8 cents more per hour (in profit sharing) and giving every consumer a rebate will undermine their confidence. I think it will spread confidence by giving people employment and purchasing power."

Lebanon Reported Scene of A-Bomb Carrier's Crash

DAYTON (AP)—The Dayton Daily News said today it has learned a big U. S. bomber crashed near Lebanon in July 1950 with a live atomic bomb aboard. It reported the crash did not explode the bomb.

The Daily News said it got indirect confirmation from Air Force officials after published reports that there have been four such incidents since World War II.

The newspaper said it has direct confirmation of the year and the general area of the Ohio incident. It reported the only large aircraft crash of the year 1950 in that general area was the crash of a Strategic Air Command bomber July 14, 1950, near Lebanon. Sixteen crewmen lost their lives in that crash.

Law To Halt Corruption Is Chief's Aim

12-Point Proposal Sent to Congress In Special Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today urged Congress to curb "corruption, racketeering and abuse of trust and power in the labor-management field." He made the recommendation in a 12-point proposal for legislation.

In a special message, Eisenhower recommended specifically that unions be subject to loss of legal bargaining status if they fail to file true and proper data on their finances and other subjects.

Against a background of congressional inquiries disclosing abuses in the labor-management field, Eisenhower called for legislation "to benefit and protect the welfare of American workers and the general public."

He added it should curb abuses, and provide greater harmony and stability in labor-management relations.

The entire 12 - point legislative program recommended by Eisenhower had been unveiled previously by Secretary of Labor Mitchell. He outlined it at the AFL-CIO convention last December.

* * *

AS GIVEN OUT in the Mitchell address, the program had drawn fire from both labor leaders who contended it went too far, and management spokesmen who said it did not go far enough.

Coupled with the normal political wariness of congressmen on labor matters in an election year, that lack of enthusiasm lessened chances for major parts of the program to get through Congress this year.

Abuses at which Eisenhower aimed have been sharply outlined in hearings before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark). That group is preparing its own proposed remedies.

Here are some of the administration's recommendations:

Require unions to disclose their financial operations in detail to the government.

Make unions failing to file true and proper reports liable to loss of their tax exempt status and access to the National Labor Relations Board.

Make union embezzlements subject to federal instead of state prosecution. It would be felony for employers to bribe union officials and unions to bribe an employer's representative.

Require unions to hold secret ballot elections to increase the members' voice in choosing their officials.

Disclose publicly the operations of all welfare funds whether union or employer operated or jointly administered.

Require public reports by employers or union officials of any payments to one another.

Rocket Ship Test Flight Said Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The X15, an experimental rocket ship to be used in planning orbital flights by man, may be given its first test run early next year.

That was the report Wednesday from two test pilots who eventually hope to fly the sleek ship at speeds of thousands of miles an hour.

Air Force Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe and Joseph Walker of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics said that the X15 will be launched over the California desert from a B52 bomber at about 40,000 feet. It will fly some 480 miles to a point over Wendover Air Force Base near Salt Lake City, Utah, then return for a landing on a dry lake bed near Edwards AFB, Calif.

Kincheloe estimated the rocket will attain a speed of 3,66 miles an hour on its initial flight. He said it will have an altitude capability of about 100 miles.

Kincheloe, 29, and Walker, 36, are preparing for X15 flights by flying modified versions of the X1 and X2. Kincheloe has taken an X2 up to 126,000 feet.

Kincheloe said the X15 will bring back data for orbital flight which would involve sending manned craft around the earth.

Ouster of Venezuelan Chief Marred By Wild Celebrations, Bloodshed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Marcos Perez Jimenez fled from Venezuela today but new bloodshed marred the wild public jubilation which followed the dictator's downfall.

National guardsmen opened fire on a crowd which moved on its headquarters to release political prisoners ordered freed by a military junta which took over the government. An unknown number of persons were reported killed and others were wounded.

The junta rushed two tanks to the guard headquarters to stop the firing. It appealed to the people to clear the area around the guard headquarters so the release of the prisoners could proceed without disturbances.

Perez Jimenez took to his heels after a brief but bloody civilian uprising in which the military finally joined.

The junta at once began restoring some of the liberties the dictatorship of nearly 10 years had suppressed.

In addition to freedom for all political prisoners it ordered all officers who took part in the short-lived New Year's revolt restored to their ranks. Punishments against them were cancelled.

Censorship was lifted.

Political exiles abroad made plans to return to their homeland.

Celebrating thousands jammed the streets of Caracas, in cars and trucks and on foot. They cheered wildly, waved Venezuelan flags and honked horns. Flag - waving students, the most publicly vocal of the ousted dictator's opponents, congregated in front of the statue of Simon Bolivar, the South American liberation hero.

The government radio network appealed repeatedly for the crowds to return to work and clear the streets "so that the political prisoners may have a clear path when they are liberated."

Perez Jimenez, dictator of the oil-rich country for nearly 10 years, took off from La Carlota Airport at 3:08 a. m.

Officials in Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, said the deposed president and his family arrived there today aboard a military plane.

He left behind an estimated 100 dead and hundreds injured in two days of rioting and clashes between antigovernment demonstrators and troops and police.

This lineup was announced for the new governing junta: Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, president; Air Force Col. Abel Romero Villate, Army Col. Roberto Casanova, national guard Col. Carlos Luis Araque and Col. Pedro Jose Quevedo for the military institutes.

The overthrow of Perez Jimenez followed a brief air force revolt New Year's Day, ensuing weeks of mounting tension and student demonstrations, a general strike which began Tuesday and the violence of the last two days.

Opposition to the president had grown increasingly open since he sought to prolong his rule for five more years by a plebiscite Dec. 15 in which he was the only candidate.

As the first ballot box was being opened, Interior Minister Laureano Vallenilla Lanz announced that Perez Jimenez's reelection was "overwhelming."

Gen. Clay Tells Probers His Military Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay proposed today that U. S. military forces be drastically reorganized with all major commanders in the same uniform and under a single chief.

The retired World War II Army general said single control is necessary because "no future commander is going to fight a war with the weapons of one service."

Clay said the present joint chiefs of staff, the group that includes top service commanders, now is "just another committee" and they should serve only as advisers.

In advance of Clay's statement, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said "we must tighten our belts and do more perhaps for years to come" to surpass Russia in missiles and satellite.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and senior Republican on the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, said that "there is no blinking away from the enormity of the task we face.

"We must strengthen our forces-in-being. We must advance the availability date of quantities of new, more powerful weapons. We must prosecute a vigorous space program."

The subcommittee was told by Secretary of Defense McElroy that he expects to have an administration reorganization plan ready for congressional action during the current session.

McElroy, who testified behind closed doors, drew praise from Sen. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader of the Senate, who has been critical of what he has called the lack of a "sense of urgency" in the administration.

JOHNSON SAID he was impressed by McElroy's "candor, his determination to seek out facts be-

Chicago Firemen Tracking Explosive Fuel Mixture

CHICAGO (AP) — A house-to-house search enveloped a West Side area when fire officials learned 1,300 gallons of an explosive gasoline-fuel oil mixture was mistakenly sold to scores of residents as stove fuel.

By late Wednesday night, nervous residents had turned in 950 gallons at a central receiving station manned by firemen.

No explosions were reported, but Harry Mohr, deputy chief fire marshal, warned "a great potential for explosion" existed.

The fuel was purchased by residents of a densely populated low-rent district who live in flats mostly heated by space stoves.

Some 200 firemen, policemen and civil defense volunteers conducted the search, knocking on doors and broadcasting warnings with loud speakers mounted on fire trucks.

* * *

MOHR SET UP his headquarters in a Martin Oil Co. station which sold the mixture. He checked off on a map each block of the four-square-mile area as police reported its residents had been warned.

Martin officials could not explain how the accident occurred. It was discovered when an official smelled gasoline fumes from a wholesale dealer's truck which had supposedly been filled with fuel oil.

Most of the oil was sold in 5-and 10-gallon quantities and the names of customers were unknown.

Mohr said an investigation was underway to discover how the gasoline and oil were mixed. He said both were stored in large underground tanks and that "someone" probably pumped gasoline into the wrong tank.

Clevelander, 94, Freed from Pen

COLUMBUS (AP)—John Morgan, at 94, started a new life today.

Morgan is being released from Ohio Penitentiary. He will have a new suit, bus ticket to Cleveland and some $300 that has accumulated in his "personal account" at the penitentiary.

Convicted in 1928 of the slaying of a Cleveland junk dealer, he was sentenced to life imprisonment. After being turned down 10 times by the parole board, he was granted freedom at the 11th hearing.

Morgan has maintained his innocence in the slaying of Jacob Rosenberg in the victim's basement in Cleveland.

Girl Assists Cops in Grab Of Lensman

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Billy Joe Bryson, handsome, 21-year-old father of two from Chesapeake, Ohio, Rt. 1, was jailed Wednesday night. Police said they trapped him in a motel room pretending to take pictures of a 16-year-old Huntington girl posed on a bed in a swim suit.

Bryson was formally charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Asst. Prosecutor Keith L. Newman said the girl was at the motel on U. S. 60 east of Huntington only to help state police make the arrest. He said a trap was set as a part of an investigation of complaints which authorities had been receiving from parents for the past two months.

Newman said parents told the county prosecutor's office that their attractive daughters had been receiving telephone calls from a man who offered them $25 to pose in the nude or $15 if they donned extra scanty swim suits.

One mother displayed a photo of her daughter in the nude, which she said she found in a dresser drawer, but like other parents she declined to aid in efforts to arrest the photographer, Newman said. The daughter refused to say who made the picture, he added.

Finally a mother and daughter, the girl who played the decoy Wednesday night, agreed to cooperate with officers, the girl arranging to meet the man.

Newman said they found Bryson pretending to photograph the girl with a camera that had no film in it and no flashgun attached.

Living Yeast Slated As Space 'Passenger'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to send some living organisms into outer space. A few yeast cells will be aboard one or more of the test satellites U. S. scientists hope to launch soon.

A Navy spokesman said the yeast would be enclosed in a tiny instrumented container inside the satellite, and that the experiment might provide data on the reaction of life outside the earth's atmosphere.

Ohio Farmers' Corn Share Dips Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio corn farmers will receive $13,126,800 as their share of the $174,600,000 alloted for corn producers under the 1958 soil bank plan.

This was more than $1 million less than the $14,396,714 alloted Ohio corn growers under the 1957 plan.

Hollywood TV Station Ready For 'Subliminal Perception'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In a couple of months some strapping young chap may spring from his chair in front of the TV, grab his coat and streak down town to join the Army—without knowing why.

Well, it may be a simple case of subliminal perception.

This hard-to-pronounce combination is actually nothing more than a somewhat creepy device for sneaking things into your head without your conscious knowledge.

Television station KTLA here says that in 60 days or so it will become th efirst station in the country to undertake a planned program of sublimal communication.

To pull the trick off, the station will employ special transmitting equipment that will flash an image or a message across the screen. It will be on and off so fast that the home viewer won't consciously know he's seen anything. But, if it works, the flash will leave an impression in his mind.

Lew Arnold, KTLA's general manager, said the gimmick will be used at first only for public service messages. He elaborated: "We'll flash on something like 'Join the Army' or 'Give to the March of Dimes.'

"The next step would be to promote our own shows. Then—and I have a feeling this is a long way off—we might go into the commercial end of it."

Would it be fair, Arnold was asked, to subject people to subtle mental stimuli that would send them flying off to the drug-store for toothpaste they didn't need?

"Gee, I lon't know," he said.

But he added that the Federal Communications Commission is going to study the new device and "if they say we can't use it, naturally we won't."

Arnold said his station won't spring the thing on its viewers without giving them a chance to duck.

"Before we put it on," he said, "we'll say: 'We're about to transmit a subliminal message.' "

UAW Demands Profit Share

Auto Union Delegates Back Reuther Proposal

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, in a special convention today, overwhelmingly approved Walter P. Reuther's proposal to make a profit-sharing plan the union's main bargaining goal in 1958. The UAW president announced the vote on a show of hands carried by 90 per cent.

The UAW president appeared confident that he had ample strength among the 3,000 delegates to win approval of the plan. It would give auto workers a one-quarter slice of a company's profits over 10 per cent on net capital before taxes.

In an hourlong opening debate on the plan, the redhaired labor chief bristled at a delegate's suggestion that it "appears we're serving as a rubber stamp."

The criticism came from Lewis H. Michener of Long Beach, Calif. He said in the 1958 bargaining program should have been worked out in the convention instead of being publicized before the delegates convened.

Reuther retorted, "We only told you our thinking. The companies rejected our thinking. We could have been criticized justly if we had not given you time to think it over."

* * *

REUTHER announced that General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice had rejected the union's invitation to address the convention on what he believed should be its bargaining goals this spring.

Earlier, in keynoting the convention, Reuther said, "Mr. Curtice was the first to reply rejecting our proposal. He said it was foreign to the free enterprise system. He said it would undermine confidence. I fail to understand how giving every GM worker 30.8 cents more per hour (in profit sharing) and giving every consumer a rebate will undermine their confidence. I think it will spread confidence by giving people employment and purchasing power."

Lebanon Reported Scene of A-Bomb Carrier's Crash

DAYTON (AP)—The Dayton Daily News said today it has learned a big U. S. bomber crashed near Lebanon in July 1950 with a live atomic bomb aboard. It reported the crash did not explode the bomb.

The Daily News said it got indirect confirmation from Air Force officials after published reports that there have been four such incidents since World War II.

The newspaper said it has direct confirmation of the year and the general area of the Ohio incident. It reported the only large aircraft crash of the year 1950 in that general area was the crash of a Strategic Air Command bomber July 14, 1950, near Lebanon. Sixteen crewmen lost their lives in that crash.

Law To Halt Corruption Is Chief's Aim

12-Point Proposal Sent to Congress In Special Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today urged Congress to curb "corruption, racketeering and abuse of trust and power in the labor-management field." He made the recommendation in a 12-point proposal for legislation.

In a special message, Eisenhower recommended specifically that unions be subject to loss of legal bargaining status if they fail to file true and proper data on their finances and other subjects.

Against a background of congressional inquiries disclosing abuses in the labor-management field, Eisenhower called for legislation "to benefit and protect the welfare of American workers and the general public."

He added it should curb abuses, and provide greater harmony and stability in labor-management relations.

The entire 12 - point legislative program recommended by Eisenhower had been unveiled previously by Secretary of Labor Mitchell. He outlined it at the AFL-CIO convention last December.

* * *

AS GIVEN OUT in the Mitchell address, the program had drawn fire from both labor leaders who contended it went too far, and management spokesmen who said it did not go far enough.

Coupled with the normal political wariness of congressmen on labor matters in an election year, that lack of enthusiasm lessened chances for major parts of the program to get through Congress this year.

Abuses at which Eisenhower aimed have been sharply outlined in hearings before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark). That group is preparing its own proposed remedies.

Here are some of the administration's recommendations:

Require unions to disclose their financial operations in detail to the government.

Make unions failing to file true and proper reports liable to loss of their tax exempt status and access to the National Labor Relations Board.

Make union embezzlements subject to federal instead of state prosecution. It would be felony for employers to bribe union officials and unions to bribe an employer's representative.

Require unions to hold secret ballot elections to increase the members' voice in choosing their officials.

Disclose publicly the operations of all welfare funds whether union or employer operated or jointly administered.

Require public reports by employers or union officials of any payments to one another.

Rocket Ship Test Flight Said Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The X15, an experimental rocket ship to be used in planning orbital flights by man, may be given its first test run early next year.

That was the report Wednesday from two test pilots who eventually hope to fly the sleek ship at speeds of thousands of miles an hour.

Air Force Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe and Joseph Walker of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics said that the X15 will be launched over the California desert from a B52 bomber at about 40,000 feet. It will fly some 480 miles to a point over Wendover Air Force Base near Salt Lake City, Utah, then return for a landing on a dry lake bed near Edwards AFB, Calif.

Kincheloe estimated the rocket will attain a speed of 3,66 miles an hour on its initial flight. He said it will have an altitude capability of about 100 miles.

Kincheloe, 29, and Walker, 36, are preparing for X15 flights by flying modified versions of the X1 and X2. Kincheloe has taken an X2 up to 126,000 feet.

Kincheloe said the X15 will bring back data for orbital flight which would involve sending manned craft around the earth.

Steelworker Union Battles For SUB in Court Action

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A legal battle in which the United Steelworkers of America are seeking to win full Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) for Ohio workers continued in Common Pleas Court here today.

The union is contesting a ruling by James R. Tichenor, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, that both state unemployment compensation and SUB payments should not be made to jobless workers. The BUC and four big steel companies were named defendants in its suit.

Murray Latimer of Washington, D. C., a consultant on unemployment benefits, insurance and pensions, testified Wednesday that SUB creates an incentive for an employer to find other jobs for his laid-off workers. He helped the USW negotiate contracts containing SUB provisions with the steel companies.

Approximately 200,000 workers in Ohio are covered by SUB plans in contracts negotiated by the USW, United Automobile Workers, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and United Rubber Workers.

Lawyers for the state sought to prove in cross-examination of Latimer that SUB payments were compensation under Ohio laws and therefore were not legal.

Herschel Kreiger of Canton, attorney for the Steelworkers, said in his opening statement that the union would present evidence to show that SUB payments were workers' earnings in a period prior to their period of unemployment. He said the payments are not made by the employer, but from a fund built up by a five-cent hourly contribution from each employe's earnings.

Steel companies named defendants are U.S. Steel Corp., Republic Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. They are cooperating with the USW in seeking a test of Tichenor's ruling.

Under the SUB plan, laid off workers would be paid benefits in addition to state unemployment compensation to provide them with 65 per cent of their take-home pay during jobless periods.

State unemployment benefits, up to $39 a week, are paid for a maximum of 26 weeks. SUB payments would be made up to a limit of 52 weeks.

Compromise Rumored in Hoffa Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters union Executive Board met today amid rumors that the board may be asked to approve a compromise settlement of the union's legal troubles.

The rumors were to the effect that an out-of-court deal had been worked out by opposing lawyers in a union members' suit seeking to upset James R. Hoffa's election as Teamsters president.

This was denied by Thomas J. Dodd, one of the attorneys for the dissident members who contend Hoffa's election was rigged. Dodd said, "There's always talk about settling a case. I can assure you it isn't so in this one."

But reports of a compromise persisted and it was known that opposing counsel have been conferring all week on phases of the suit, now before a federal judge.

Some of the reports of a compromise were to the effect that Hoffa would step down as president-elect; others said he would take office but that a three-man committee would be named to look after members' interests.

The Teamsters have been expelled by the AFL-CIO on charges, brought out in Senate labor rackets investigations, that Hoffa and Union President Dave Beck were involved in vast union money scandals. Beck did not seek reelection and Hoffa was picked to succeed him.

Boris Karloff Back Again In 'Monster' Movie Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The laboratory looked familiar, but the monsters was different. And — what's this? — Boris Karloff was playing the mad doctor.

As any student of the chiller movie knows, Karloff was the Christopher Columbus among monsters. He was the original in the 1931 trailblazer "Frankenstein," in which Colin Clive played the title role. (Don't fall into the common error of calling the monster Frankenstein; that was the name of its creator.)

Now it's Karloff playing the title role in the futuristic "Frankenstein 1970," so named to avoid confusion with the umpteen other Frankensteins. The actor was playing a scarred victim of Nazi concentration camps. He limped around his lab with fiendish glee as he experimented with his home made monster.

"Lift your left arm," commanded Karloff, and the monster did so. It was a large one (played by 6-foot-9 Mike Lane) and swathed in bandages so it looked like a mummy. Karloff also played the Mummy in his day, but that is neither here nor there.

When the scene was over, Karloff resumed his identity as the urbane, English-born actor and strode in dignity to lunch in the studio commissary, where he had cold cuts. He sighed over his fate in motion pictures.

"Even though I have played all kinds of roles in television and on the stage," he said, "the producers here can think of me only in terms of so-called horror pictures. Mind you, an actor is lucky to be typed, but you would think that they'd realize I can do something else.

"I wouldn't think of playing a monster again. The monster was an interesting character at first. But then they reduced him to nothing but a stupid brute. No actor wants to play a stupid character.

"What they have done with these pictures is typical of Hollywood thinking. They have exploited them over and over again until the pictures mean nothing."

Navy Quits Search For MATS Plane

HONOLULU (AP)—Search for seven men aboard a crashed Military Air Transport Service plane was abandoned Wednesday night, but the Navy continued to look for possible survivors of a vanished weather plane off Guam.

Faint radio distress signals spurred the search for 10 Air Force men aboard the weather reconnaissance plane that disappeared Jan. 15 while entering the eye of a typhoon.

The radio signals, heard again Wednesday could have come from a hand-cranked transmitter.

Search for the seven aboard the MATS plane that crashed about 275 miles southwest of Hawaii was called off after a half-ton of airplane debris was returned to Pearl Harbor. Much of it was burned.

Missing Boy Doesn't Know Own Parents

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 15-year-old boy, missing from his Freeport, Ill., home since Nov. 26, failed to recognize his parents when they arrived here late Wednesday.

The boy, Darryl Dornink, was found Tuesday night in Union Terminal. He was in a dazed condition and didn't recall his name. He didn't recognize his own picture found in his pocket.

Other cards identified his parents as Mr. and Mrs. Galen Dornink.

At Freeport, police reported the Dorninks reported their son missing on Nov. 27 after he had failed to return home from school the previous day. Police records also showed $900 of the lad's postal savings were missing on the day of his disappearance.

The boy has been under care at General Hospital here and doctors said they could find no sign of any brain injury although his parents said he suffered a football injury two weeks before his disappearance. Doctors here said he might be suffering from "severe despondency" brought on by a move from a farm to the city.

Steelworker Union Battles For SUB in Court Action

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A legal battle in which the United Steelworkers of America are seeking to win full Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) for Ohio workers continued in Common Pleas Court here today.

The union is contesting a ruling by James R. Tichenor, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, that both state unemployment compensation and SUB payments should not be made to jobless workers. The BUC and four big steel companies were named defendants in its suit.

Murray Latimer of Washington, D. C., a consultant on unemployment benefits, insurance and pensions, testified Wednesday that SUB creates an incentive for an employer to find other jobs for his laid-off workers. He helped the USW negotiate contracts containing SUB provisions with the steel companies.

Approximately 200,000 workers in Ohio are covered by SUB plans in contracts negotiated by the USW, United Automobile Workers, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and United Rubber Workers.

Lawyers for the state sought to prove in cross-examination of Latimer that SUB payments were compensation under Ohio laws and therefore were not legal.

Herschel Kreiger of Canton, attorney for the Steelworkers, said in his opening statement that the union would present evidence to show that SUB payments were workers' earnings in a period prior to their period of unemployment. He said the payments are not made by the employer, but from a fund built up by a five-cent hourly contribution from each employe's earnings.

Steel companies named defendants are U.S. Steel Corp., Republic Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. They are cooperating with the USW in seeking a test of Tichenor's ruling.

Under the SUB plan, laid off workers would be paid benefits in addition to state unemployment compensation to provide them with 65 per cent of their take-home pay during jobless periods.

State unemployment benefits, up to $39 a week, are paid for a maximum of 26 weeks. SUB payments would be made up to a limit of 52 weeks.

Compromise Rumored in Hoffa Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters union Executive Board met today amid rumors that the board may be asked to approve a compromise settlement of the union's legal troubles.

The rumors were to the effect that an out-of-court deal had been worked out by opposing lawyers in a union members' suit seeking to upset James R. Hoffa's election as Teamsters president.

This was denied by Thomas J. Dodd, one of the attorneys for the dissident members who contend Hoffa's election was rigged. Dodd said, "There's always talk about settling a case. I can assure you it isn't so in this one."

But reports of a compromise persisted and it was known that opposing counsel have been conferring all week on phases of the suit, now before a federal judge.

Some of the reports of a compromise were to the effect that Hoffa would step down as president-elect; others said he would take office but that a three-man committee would be named to look after members' interests.

The Teamsters have been expelled by the AFL-CIO on charges, brought out in Senate labor rackets investigations, that Hoffa and Union President Dave Beck were involved in vast union money scandals. Beck did not seek reelection and Hoffa was picked to succeed him.

Since 1950 Arizona's population has risen from 750,000 to 1,150,000.

New claims dropped sharply, however, the BUC said. They totaled 26,551 as compared with 32,612 for the week ended Jan. 11.

Stock Mart Prices Show Mixed Trend

NEW YORK (AP)—Tobacco shares continued their rise as the stock market showed a mixed pattern in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Changes in most key stocks were narrow, generally within a point.

The market showed a gentle downward trend at the opening. This continued until about noon, when tobacco stocks advanced. Some tobaccos hit new 1957-58 highs.

Some uncertainty existed regarding money rates following the latest credit-easing moves as the lower rates have not yet become uniform. Further antirecession moves by the Federal Reserve Board were awaited.

Meanwhile, the succession of unfavorable dividend actions caused hesitancy in regard to stocks with dividend announcements in the offing.

Lorillard and Philip Morris gained about a point and Liggett & Myers a major fraction as each touched new highs.

General Dynamics see-sawed in an otherwise steady aircraft section. It showed easiness in the afternoon after an early improvement. Douglas Aircraft was ahead about a point.

Chemicals and airlines showed a downward drift. Steels and oils were mixed.

U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Sputnik Age a Stimulant

Sputniks, cold war ferment, taxes, presidential illnesses, natural disasters and many other events and issues trod closely upon the heels of one another to engage the attention of the American people in the year now ended.

There will be more exciting, depressing, tragic and—it is to be hoped—gladsome occurrences in the year which has now begun. Whatever else this age may be, as its mills grind out the grist of achievements, it certainly is not boresome.

And that it may be said, is the way to react personally to the times. They are stimulating to all who do not see gloom and doom just around the corner.

Anyone can suppose, without much effort, that fantastic new weapons will decimate or eliminate life. He can suppose that despotism will create another dark age, that the human race will slay itself by population gains, that the United States will lose its wonderful way of life and that general damnation will be the lot of all.

But the man who studies what is transpiring in the light of what has happened in the past will enjoy the inward glow of a far more optimistic point of view. He will reflect that the world gradually has been growing better through recorded history and that mankind today has more tools than ever to usher in the golden age.

Some dour rumination is called for to balance off a man's thinking and lead him to sounder judgments. But these are times for exultation instead of for despair. Man is learning these days more than ever before. And as man learns, his findings are sure to be translated, sooner or later, into human welfare.

Pilgrim on Road to Learning

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—A little pilgrim on the royal road to learning lives in our house.

Nothing makes you more aware of the passage of time than having a child in your home. On one day you have to do everything for it, and it seems almost the very next day it won't let you do anything for it.

Our daughter, Tracy Ann, now 4½ years old, has reached this do-it-all-by - herself stage. Ten times a day she utters her clamorous declaration of independence: "I don't need any help. I can do it myself."

Her statement applies to everything from going to the bathroom to standing on tiptoe to push the elevator button.

Looking around her littered room the other day, I remarked: "If you can do so much, why can't you manage to pick up your clothes and keep your room neat?"

"Well, after all, I'm just a little girl," she said calmly. "I can't learn everything at once."

Her sturdy self - confidence reached a peak when, after weeks of terrible struggle, she finally learned to fumble a ribbon into a bowknot, all alone. Now Tracy spends about an hour daily practicing this womanly art.

My wife, Frances, thinks Tracy is remarkably advanced because she has also learned to tie a bowknot behind her back.

"What's the point in that?" I asked. "Why not teach her to tie a bow standing on her head?"

"Listen, Rover," said Frances, "don't you realize that from the time a girl puts on her first kitchen apron she has to tie a bow behind her back every day of her life?"

Well, isn't that just like a woman—ask her a silly question and she gives you a serious answer?

Her new-grown independence has also shown itself in a change of marital plans. Until recently she had always planned on marrying her father, but the other day she boldly asked Mark Stumpf, a 6-year-old playmate down the hall, "Would you like to marry me?"

Mark showed little enthusiasm for the project, and when I asked Tracy what about her earlier program to wed me, she replied gravely: "Why, daddy, you know I can't."

"Why not?"

"Cause I'm growing up, but you're growing down. And when I'm big enough to get married, you'll just be a little tiny baby boy and I can't marry a baby."

Well, as they say—Out of the mouths of babes. There is nothing like an independent child to make a grownup feel helpless.

Public Relations Problem

By George Sokolsky

John W. Hill operates what is regarded as the largest and most impressive public relations firm in the world, with offices in many countries and a big show in New York. So John Hill has written a book to explain what public relations is all about, particularly corporate public relations which is his specialty.

The purpose of the book is obviously to clarify that corporate public relations is a profession, with the disciplines and limitations of a profession. Hill says in this book, "Corporate Public Relations":

"It is possible in a free country, without greatly stretching the imagination, to read 'public opinion' for 'government.' In a nation with free elections, the near-equating of the two terms is justified. For, while public opinion can no more assume the making of government decisions than stockholders can decide all the matters weighed by management, our American system is is such that delegation of power and of confidence is the equivalent of taking action."

This is strong language and has never been quite true in the United States where the Administration in power has never altogether been dependent upon the public opinion of the moment nor could it respond to it by any constitutional method. It would be more true to say that governments in some Central American and South American countries respond sensitively to public opinion, often expressed in the guise of rebellion, and it certainly is true of France where no government can last long because of the vagaries of public opinion, however devised.

Nor can it be substantiated that "delegation of power and of confidence is the equivalent of taking action." Were it so this would be an absolute anarchy.

The most recent of President Eisenhower's press conferences, in which he slapped down a reporter for a question on John Foster Dulles, showed how those who possess actual and constitutional power need not worry about whether their views represent a delegation of public confidence.

However, what is brought out here is that public opinion is both wooed and raped in the United States and that it is the function of public relations to do both. John Hill, his Calvinistic upbringing asserting itself, in his book, resents the abuse of the term "public relations," by a press agent boosting a floosie into a personality, although he would regard giving a corporation or a trade association the policy advice by which they get a good name. He says:

"Thus corporate public relations may be described as the management function which gives the same organized and careful attention to the asset of good will as is given to any other major asset of the business."

That, after all, is what a gal like Eva Bartok wants -- good will. And to many in the forensic occupations it is worth millions of dollars the same as for a corporation. In a word, it is a bit snooty to assume that there is something superior about the corporation, although there are those who believe it and become very stuffy when it is suggested that selling soap or gasoline or steel is nothing more important than selling a voice on the movies or a body in a night club.

What it comes to is that if there is a demand there is a supply and the profit is greater if the demand is greater than the supply. All the good will in the world will not help the United States Steel Corporation sell steel during a depression and that was shown in the last Depression when the United States Government went to the aid of the corporation which was like putting it on relief.

This book is interesting because what it really does is analyzes the art of persuasion and explores the techniques, the object being not only to influence Americans to accept public relations as a noble art like the ministry or the law, but also to stabilize the profession so that those who earn their livelihoods a little off beat, will be stricken in their consciences by their evil conduct and will behave. The purpose is a worthy one and the book is therefore valuable.

One reason that we lack effective leadership is that too many leaders are manufactured in the offices of public relations counsel. If anybody says that that is good, how does he explain the present crop of leaders?

Historian-Envoy Dies at Age 79

NEW YORK (AP) — Claude G. Bowers, historian and diplomat, died Tuesday night at his home in Manhattan. He was 79.

Bowers was ambassador to Spain from 1933 to 1939. He resigned from the post when the United States recognized Franco.

Subsequently, Bowers was named ambassador to Chile and he remained as the American envoy to the South American country until 1953, when the Eisenhower administration took office.

Many of Bowers' historical and biographical writing dealt with the period of Thomas Jefferson, and he was considered a leading authority on Jefferson.

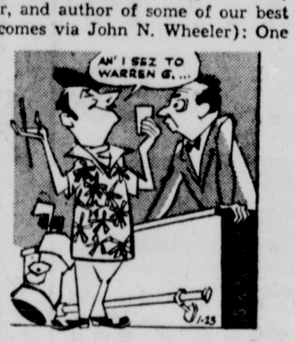
Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ADDENDA TO STORIES about the great Ring Lardner, creator of Al the Busher, and author of some of our best short stories (this anecdote comes via John N. Wheeler): One day President Warren Harding invited Ring Lardner to play golf with him, and enjoyed the round so thoroughly, he was in a very expensive mood when they returned to the clubhouse.



"Is there anything I can do for you?" asked the President.

"Yes," said Ring. "I want to be ambassador to Greece."

"Why would you like to go there?" Harding wanted to know.

"Because," explained Ring, "my wife has grown tired of Great Neck."

Rest Best for Flu Victims

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Even with all the Asian flu we have had throughout the country, I know very well that many of you will simply ignore cold and flu symptoms and maintain your regular daily schedule.

You'll go to work, you'll go shopping or somewhere else, but you won't go to bed.

This is a big mistake. Let me tell you why.

Influenza, Asian flu or any such ailment lowers your resistance to other diseases. And the diseases that may attack you after a bout with the flu are much more dangerous than the flu itself.

If you feel any of the well-known sysptoms of flu, go to bed at once. Call a doctor, especially if you develop a high fever.

With so much flu around, your doctor is apt to be a busy fellow. So if he can't come to your aid right away, don't be alarmed.

Take aspirin, emperin compound or whatever you ordinarily take for pain and use cold compresses to relieve the fever. Don't take any other medicine without specific instructions from your physician. Also, be careful not to give too many aspirin to children.

I generally advise you to consult your own doctor when you become ill, but I know that many of you don't do it.

Well, in the case of the flu there are certain symptoms which clearly indicate you MUST summon a doctor.

Flu victims should seek immediate help of a physician if:

There is a sudden rise in temperature after the first three or four days.

You develop severe chest pain, especially upon breathing.

Coughing brings up a great deal of yellowish or greenish mucous material.

Breathing becomes heavy, deep or difficult.

There is excessive muscle pain and-or a stiff neck.

Your doctor has many drugs which will help to bring back your health, but you can undo a lot of his efforts by getting out of bed too quickly. Stay there until he says it's okay for you to get up again.

Even for a simple flu attack, you should give yourself at least two days of rest after you think the illness has gone.

Question and Answer

D. G.: I had part of my stomach removed because of an ulcer about three years ago. Since that time, I get a feeling of pressure beneath my ribs right after eating. This feeling becomes relieved after a half-hour or so. What is the cause of this?

Answer: You are probably suffering from what is known as a "dumping syndrome," a frequent complication of stomach surgery. Usually, the use of a mild antispasmodic drug will relieve such symptoms.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson, the most powerful man in the Senate and one of the best political operators to appear in Washington in years, has one thing in common with President Eisenhower, and one basic difference.

Both men, going out of their way to avoid personal attacks on others, provide others with a minimum of ammunition for use against them. Johnson is about as free of criticism as Eisenbower was until the Sputniks went up.

But where Johnson, a Texan and leader of the Senate Democrats since 1953, pays amazing attention to detail, Eisenhower leaves the detail work to his staff.

Johnson is a self-conscious man who loves praise. He's also an egotistical man. His ability to keep both those facets of his character from public view and out of political maneuverings is a tribute to his ability as an operator.

He's no fiery zealot. He's a compromiser. In a place of such intense differences of opinion as the Senate, compromise is a practical political necessity.

Three things probably account for Johnson's ability to get the Senate to do what sometimes seems the impossible:

1. That attention to detail. He does his homework thoroughly. Just two examples: knowing where every senator is; knowing day by day the progress or fate of every important bill still tied up in a committee.

2. He pays attention to his fellow senators of both parties. It's this writer's guess that every senator in the place is indebted to him in some way, for a favor or special consideration.

For example: helping push through a measure in which some individual senator is particularly interested or, in the case of Democrats, helping a man get a committee seat he particularly wants.

3. A determination to get along with Democrats and Republicans alike in order to get the maximum action out of the Senate as a whole. That explains, perhaps only in part, why he spends so little time criticizing Republicans.

In short, he runs the Senate like a business—insofar as that's possible.

Johnson's remarkable achievement so far was in getting the Senate last year to approve a civil rights bill which his fellow Southerners intensely disliked and in getting them to let it get through without a filibuster.

Two things made this performance significant: it was the first civil rights bill passed in this century; and Johnson, by his behind-the-scenes manipulations, took the play away from the Republicans who started the civil rights bill rolling.

Johnson has had a heart attack and says he doesn't want to be president. But he's certain to get some consideration at the Democratic convention in 1960.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT: Better Health Through Knowledge

The Fat and The Lean

Q. Will reducing machines take off fat in the right spots?
A. No. Doctors say that you can't reduce in spots. Whether you want to "spot" reduce or reduce all over, see your doctor.

Q. When people diet to reduce do they lose more fat in the bulgy places than in other parts?
A. Yes, they seem to lose more fat in the places where the fat is thickest. But they also lose weight in all parts of the body, so it's not "spot" reducing.

Q. Does walking help people reduce?
A. It helps but walking isn't an easy way to lose weight. Two pounds of excess body fat equals about 7000 calories. Walking one mile uses up about 100 calories. To lose two pounds a person would have to walk 10 extra miles every day for a week and eat no more than he normally would.

Q. Does poor digestion cause thinness?
A. It might but lots of thin people have perfectly normal digestive systems. British scientists studied three thin but otherwise healthy young men. During the experiments they ate rich food without trouble and gained weight to boot. But when left on their own they ate less fatttening food and dropped back to their below-par weight. Why? The doctors couldn't find the reason. By choice the men simply shied away from fattening food.

Q. Is it more important for overweight people to watch for diabetes than people of normal weight?
A. Yes. A Boston physician says that every person who is 20 per cent or more overweight is a diabetic suspect. And remember, passing one diabetic test with flying colors is no guarantee that the disease won't develop later.

Material in MEDIAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

NEW YORK (AP) — Claude G. Bowers, historian and diplomat, died Tuesday night at his home in Manhattan. He was 79.

Bowers was ambassador to Spain from 1933 to 1939. He resigned from the post when the United States recognized Franco.

Subsequently, Bowers was named ambassador to Chile and he remained as the American envoy to the South American country until 1953, when the Eisenhower administration took office.

Many of Bowers' historical and biographical writing dealt with the period of Thomas Jefferson, and he was considered a leading authority on Jefferson.

Try and Stop Me

ADDENDA TO STORIES about the great Ring Lardner, creator of Al the Busher, and author of some of our best short stories (this anecdote comes via John N. Wheeler): One day President Warren Harding invited Ring Lardner to play golf with him, and enjoyed the round so thoroughly, he was in a very expensive mood when they returned to the clubhouse.

"Is there anything I can do for you?" asked the President.

"Yes," said Ring. "I want to be ambassador to Greece."

"Why would you like to go there?" Harding wanted to know.

"Because," explained Ring, "my wife has grown tired of Great Neck."

Rest Best for Flu Victims

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Even with all the Asian flu we have had throughout the country, I know very well that many of you will simply ignore cold and flu symptoms and maintain your regular daily schedule.

You'll go to work, you'll go shopping or somewhere else, but you won't go to bed.

This is a big mistake. Let me tell you why.

Influenza, Asian flu or any such ailment lowers your resistance to other diseases. And the diseases that may attack you after a bout with the flu are much more dangerous than the flu itself.

If you feel any of the well-known sysptoms of flu, go to bed at once. Call a doctor, especially if you develop a high fever.

With so much flu around, your doctor is apt to be a busy fellow. So if he can't come to your aid right away, don't be alarmed.

Take aspirin, emperin compound or whatever you ordinarily take for pain and use cold compresses to relieve the fever. Don't take any other medicine without specific instructions from your physician. Also, be careful not to give too many aspirin to children.

I generally advise you to consult your own doctor when you become ill, but I know that many of you don't do it.

Well, in the case of the flu there are certain symptoms which clearly indicate you MUST summon a doctor.

Flu victims should seek immediate help of a physician if:

There is a sudden rise in temperature after the first three or four days.

You develop severe chest pain, especially upon breathing.

Coughing brings up a great deal of yellowish or greenish mucous material.

Breathing becomes heavy, deep or difficult.

There is excessive muscle pain and-or a stiff neck.

Your doctor has many drugs which will help to bring back your health, but you can undo a lot of his efforts by getting out of bed too quickly. Stay there until he says it's okay for you to get up again.

Even for a simple flu attack, you should give yourself at least two days of rest after you think the illness has gone.

Question and Answer

D. G.: I had part of my stomach removed because of an ulcer about three years ago. Since that time, I get a feeling of pressure beneath my ribs right after eating. This feeling becomes relieved after a half-hour or so. What is the cause of this?

Answer: You are probably suffering from what is known as a "dumping syndrome," a frequent complication of stomach surgery. Usually, the use of a mild antispasmodic drug will relieve such symptoms.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson, the most powerful man in the Senate and one of the best political operators to appear in Washington in years, has one thing in common with President Eisenhower, and one basic difference.

Both men, going out of their way to avoid personal attacks on others, provide others with a minimum of ammunition for use against them. Johnson is about as free of criticism as Eisenhower was until the Sputniks went up.

But where Johnson, a Texan and leader of the Senate Democrats since 1953, pays amazing attention to detail, Eisenhower leaves the detail work to his staff.

Johnson is a self-conscious man who loves praise. He's also an egotistical man. His ability to keep both those facets of his character from public view and out of political maneuverings is a tribute to his ability as an operator.

He's no fiery zealot. He's a compromiser. In a place of such intense differences of opinion as the Senate, compromise is a practical political necessity.

Three things probably account for Johnson's ability to get the Senate to do what sometimes seems the impossible:

1. That attention to detail. He does his homework thoroughly. Just two examples: knowing where every senator is; knowing day by day the progress or fate of every important bill still tied up in a committee.

2. He pays attention to his fellow senators of both parties. It's this writer's guess that every senator in the place is indebted to him in some way, for a favor or special consideration.

For example: helping push through a measure in which some individual senator is particularly interested or, in the case of Democrats, helping a man get a committee seat he particularly wants.

3. A determination to get along with Democrats and Republicans alike in order to get the maximum action out of the Senate as a whole. That explains, perhaps only in part, why he spends so little time criticizing Republicans.

In short, he runs the Senate like a business—insofar as that's possible.

Johnson's remarkable achievement so far was in getting the Senate last year to approve a civil rights bill which his fellow Southerners intensely disliked and in getting them to let it get through without a filibuster.

Two things made this performance significant: it was the first civil rights bill passed in this century; and Johnson, by his behind-the-scenes manipulations, took the play away from the Republicans who started the civil rights bill rolling.

Johnson has had a heart attack and says he doesn't want to be president. But he's certain to get some consideration at the Democratic convention in 1960.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

The Fat and The Lean

Q. Will reducing machines take off fat in the right spots?
A. No. Doctors say that you can't reduce in spots. Whether you want to "spot" reduce or reduce all over, see your doctor.

Q. When people diet to reduce do they lose more fat in the bulgy places than in other parts?
A. Yes, they seem to lose more fat in the places where the fat is thickest. But they also lose weight in all parts of the body, so it's not "spot" reducing.

Q. Does walking help people reduce?
A. It helps but walking isn't an easy way to lose weight. Two pounds of excess body fat equals about 7000 calories. Walking one mile uses up about 100 calories. To lose two pounds a person would have to walk 10 extra miles every day for a week and eat no more than he normally would.

Q. Does poor digestion cause thinness?
A. It might but lots of thin people have perfectly normal digestive systems. British scientists studied three thin but otherwise healthy young men. During the experiments they ate rich food without trouble and gained weight to boot. But when left on their own they ate less fatttening food and dropped back to their below-par weight. Why? The doctors couldn't find the reason. By choice the men simply shied away from fattening food.

Q. Is it more important for overweight people to watch for diabetes than people of normal weight?
A. Yes. A Boston physician says that every person who is 20 per cent or more overweight is a diabetic suspect. And remember, passing one diabetic test with flying colors is no guarantee that the disease won't develop later.

Material in MEDIAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Reserve Board Needles Sag In Economy

Biggest Shot in Arm Would Be Freeing of More Cash for Loans

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board is needling a sagging economy again and with some success in making money easier. But it has yet to use its biggest shot in the arm—freeing more bank reserves for loans to business and individuals.

And it's too early to tell if relaxing credit will be the medicine needed to halt the business slump. Some think there was too much delay in applying the needles and that those used—cutting the discount rate and lowering stock market margins—were too small.

Some think industry is nursing ills that easy money can soothe but cannot cure by itself alone.

The Fed, as financial circles call the Federal Reserve System, has three chief means of regulating the supply of money and credit.

The one it is using today is to lower the discount rate. That means that member banks can borrow from Federal Reserve banks at either 2¾ or 3 per cent depending on which of the 12 regional banks they go to. They can use these funds in turn to lend to business.

The action needled commercial banks in New York and Philadelphia into trimming downward the rates they charge business. It also led to falling interest charges on short term loans, such as the rate the U. S. Treasury pays when it borrows. And it made it easier and cheaper for corporations to float new debt issues.

But lowering interest charges furnishes very little new money for the commercial banks to lend to business or to individuals.

Two other measures the Federal Reserve System can use have more direct bearing on the supply of credit.

One is the buying or selling of U. S. securities in the open market. So far it has used this tool only along seasonal patterns. By buying in December the Fed gave banks more funds to tide business over its big Christmas borrowing needs. When the Fed buys, the money it gives the seller is deposited at once in the banks, giving them more funds.

By selling during January the Fed could mop up some of the excess money pouring back into the banks as businessmen and individuals paid their bills.

The third and largest tool is to cut the amount of reserves that member banks must keep with Federal Reserve banks. In New York and Chicago they must keep 20 per cent of their deposits there. In 48 other large cities banks must tie up 18 per cent of their funds. In the smaller cities bank reserves are 12 per cent.

Banks for a long time have been clamoring for the Fed to lower these reserve rules and to cut the differentials between the big cities and the small. The American Bankers Assn. wants the reserves cut to a uniform 10 per cent on checking deposits, with different rules applying to reserves against savings accounts.

Cutting reserves would do more than just freeing some of the money held in the Federal Reserve banks. Bankers figure for each $1 of freed reserves they can make $5 to $6 in loans.

U.S. Ambassador's Wife Uses Wristwatch Alarm

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John Davis Lodge, wife of the American ambassador to Spain, keeps up with her busy official and social schedule by carrying with her everywhere a man-size wristwatch with an alarm attachment.

"I do everything by alarm, whether it's writing letters or attending receptions," the beauteous blonde Francesca told me on a recent Washington visit.

"Sometimes we go to four or five affairs in an evening. We have to gauge our time. I set the alarm in my purse. When it goes off I know it's time to leave."

Mrs. Lodge said she first used the alarm-timing during political campaigns, especially when her husband was running for Congress and, later, for governor of Connecticut.

"If I were making a 10-minute speech and the alarm went off, I'd stop, even in the middle of a phrase," she explained. "Now, if John puts me in charge of leaving at any particular function, I'm able to get us out on time. You can't keep looking at a clock or watch. In a crowd, few hear the alarm. Once, though, it went off in church!"

The Lodges, who went to Madrid about three years ago, were here for the holidays with their daughter, Beatrice, 19, a student at the University of Madrid. They were joined by their other daughter, Lily, 26, who lives in Nyack, N.Y., with actress Helen Hayes, an old family friend, while continuing her own theatrical career.

Lodge, who was born in Washington, and his brother, U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, and their families, stayed with their mother, Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, here.

Mrs. John Lodge has taken up flamenco dancing and the study of costumes and customs of Spain as hobbies. She also collects the written menus and guest lists given out at all the luncheons and dinners they attend at the embassies of some 70 different nations in Madrid.

Mrs. Lodge keeps her youthful size 10 figure despite the unusual eating habits encountered in Spain—luncheons from 2:30 to 4:30, dinners from 10:30 on. She eats five "very light meals" beginning with a small breakfast, fruit at 12:30, luncheon at 2:30, high tea at 8:30, dinner at 10:30. "I take one small helping of everything," she said. "I don't believe in diets."

8 Slot Machines Slated for Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Eight slot machines go on trial Monday for being used for gambling.

First Asst. County Atty. Sal Pinto sued the machines under a statute which says if a jury finds the machines "were used or intended to be used for the purpose of gambling, they shall be condemned and forfeited."

Asked if the machines had employed counsel, Pinto replied: "Rather than take advantage of the machines, I have brought in the owners to represent the machines."

Fleeing Youth Nabbed by Police

ZANESVILLE (AP) — Police here captured a youth fleeing from the highway patrol. Two truckers pulled their big vehicles across a street, forming a road block, at the city limits Wednesday night.

Police said the youth, William Walker Mason, 18, of Mingo Junction, stole a car in Steubenville and had driven away from a Cambridge service station.

The highway patrol, which took up the chase east of Cambridge, radioed Zanesville police to set up a road block on U. S. 40.

Good Grooming Pays Off In Making Father Proud

By JEANNE D'ARCY

Wives are ever lamenting that husbands don't notice the way they dress, the way they look, their new hat or hairdo.

Well, they're wrong! Men may not comment, but they do notice.

Proof of the fact is the way they brag about pretty wives and daughters—"Daddy's girls."

What's more, a man takes a compliment for his wife or his daughter as a personal one. They're his prizes, and he's pleased when others notice how charming they are.

Wise wives know this and make the most of it. It's really not expecting too much for a wife to be as glamorous for her man as she was in their days of courtship.

As for the "little girl" in the family, she'll take her cue from Mom. If Mother is pretty and attractive and feminine, her little copy-cat will strive to be that way, too.

Half of the fun of the mother-daughter relationship is watching that baby grow up into a beauty.

It's a good idea to share grooming sessions, to let your little girl dab on a bit of your good perfume (under supervision, of course), to brush hair together and generally make beauty a teamwork proposition.

It's practical to let Daughter run about in blue jeans and slacks and such easy-washables but, Mom, on weekends when Pop's around, dress her up pretty, especially when company's coming. Then sit back and watch him beam when guests comment on his pretty daughter.

Supreme Court Firmness Urged in Communist Probe

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court was urged Wednesday to reaffirm its decision upholding the convictions of four persons who refused to answer questions of the defunct Ohio Un-American Activities Commission.

The urging came from attorneys representing Franklin and Hamilton counties in the contempt convictions of Mrs. Anna H. Morgan, formerly of Columbus and wife of the former curator of the Ohio State Museum; Joseph Stern and Emmett C. Brown, both of Cincinnati, and Talmadge Raley of Sidney, formerly of Cincinnati.

The U. S. Supreme Court sent all four cases back to the Ohio Supreme Court for reconsideration in the light of two U. S. high court decisions last June. In one decision the federal court reversed the conviction of John T. Watkins, a labor leader, for contempt of Congress. The other reversed the conviction of Paul M. Sweezy of Wilton, N. H. for refusing to answer questions asked by New Hampshire's attorney general in an investigation of subversive activities.

Earl C. Allison, chief counsel for Franklin County Prosecutor Sammuel L. Devine, told the Ohio court today the federal decisions were based on "different statutes and different fact patterns."

Pointing out that witnesses before the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission enjoyed immunity from prosecution arising from their testimony before it, Allison asked the Ohio court:

"What more proper safeguard of witnesses rights could there have been than to bathe them in immunity? . . . How much further could Ohio have gone; how far must the state of Ohio prostrate itself in its own sovereign powers.

"Does the Supreme Court of the United States have the right to dictate to Ohio or the Supreme Court of Ohio how the Ohio Constitution and its laws shall be interpreted?"

Answering his own question, Allison declared state courts are the final judges of the state constitution and its interpretation.

Allison argued only Mrs. Morgan's case and commented on her refusal to answer questions during a 1952 hearing:

"A truthful denial (of questions about alleged Communists activities) could not have been a hardship; an admission would have been a hardship only of her own making."

He declared the Ohio court "stands at the crossroads of jurisprudence" and urged that the court reaffirm its decision upholding Mrs. Morgan's conviction. The U.S. Supreme Court vacated that decision when it sent the cases back to Ohio.

Appearing in behalf of Mrs. Morgan was Ann Fagan Ginger, a Brooklyn attorney. She attacked Allison's argument that the Morgan case was different from the Watkins and Sweezy cases in that immunity was not a factor in the latter two cases. She declared:

"It is incredible—impossible — that the U.S. Supreme Court didn't know that there was an immunity statute in Ohio when it remanded this case to this court."

She said the remand order means that the Ohio court must now determine whether the questions the commission asked its witnesses were pertinent to the investigation and whether the law creating the investigation commission was too vague. And, she added:

"The commission did not make clear to the witness (Mrs. Morgan), who appeared without counsel, her rights and the effect of her refusal; in fact, it muddied the path; this was pretty close to entrapment."

Appearing in the Raley, Stern and Brown cases to urge the Ohio court to stand firm were Prosecutor C. Watson Hover of Hamilton County and his assistant, Carl B. Rubin.

They supported Allison's arguments.

Appearing for Raley, Stern and Brown was Morse Johnson, Cincinnati attorney.

State Fairgrounds Bids Received

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ang Construction Co. of Columbus has submitted the apparent low bid of $206,264 for general construction work on an arts and crafts building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. The state estimate was $283,161.

Arts and crafts now are exhibited in the Buckeye Building during the state fair and will be next fall because the new building will not be finished until Feb. 15, 1959. The one-story brick building will be situated near the youth center and will have an auditorium, stage and exhibit halls.

Publisher Honored for Race Policy

TOLEDO (AP)—For sticking to his policy against racial identification during a period of race tension here, publisher Paul Block Jr. Tuesday night received the annual public service award of the Northwestern Ohio Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

Block, publisher of the Toledo Blade, holds that criminal deeds are products of sick minds and environment, not of race. On that premise, he forbids racial identification of criminals and suspected criminals in his newspaper.

The policy was put to a severe test last fall when within three days a 17-year - old minister's daughter and a 27-year-old nurse reported they had been attacked by Negroes.

In the wake of these and other reported incidents, racial prejudice mounted and some segments of the public complained about the Blade's refusal to use racial identification.

Then, several days later, the Blade published a story which it considered vindication of its stand. Both the girl and the nurse had admitted to police that their accounts of attacks were hoaxes.

In presenting the award Tuesday night, the professional journalism fraternity credited Block's policy with "having minimized" racial tension after suspects were "identified by rumor and in news broadcasts as Negroes."

Customer Parking

SUDBURY, Ont. (AP)— Sudbury's police department is seeking a parking lot of its own, so that cruisers won't be parked outside police headquarters. Officers say they are trying to provide parking space for people coming to pay parking tickets.

Parolee Admits Burglary String

COLUMBUS (AP) — Eugene Delp, 32, of Cleveland, was arrested here Wednesday. Police say he admitted more than 20 housebreakings which netted $1,000.

They said Delp, a parolee from Moundsville State Prison, W. Va., said he had broken into "too many houses and apartments to remember."

Ousted Union Chiefs Called

Probers Checking Lush Land Deal Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two ousted officials of the Operating Engineers Union were called before Senate rackets probers today for questioning about testimony linking them to $59,955.76 of "hidden profits" on a union land deal.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the special Senate committee, said Victor S. Swanson, fired as an international vice president and San Francisco boss of the union, and Ed Doran, suspended business agent of the San Francisco local, would be asked about testimony that they split the profits on land deals carried out through "dummies."

Swanson and Doran have been listed by Kennedy as members of a self-styled reformer group which sought to oust William E. Maloney as the union's international president at its 1956 convention. Swanson had pledged a major cleanup of the union's affairs.

Maloney, himself under fire in the committee's inquiry, has pleaded he is too ill to testify. He did not respond to a subpoena.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) described the union as one with a history of violence including "gangland killings."

Pierra Salinger, a staff investigator for the committee, testified that land deals with funds of the sprawling San Francisco local 3 produced $59,955.76 of hidden profits for Doran and Swanson.

Salinger said the local put up $33,500 in 1953 to buy land in Stockton, Calif., on which to build a $300,000 labor center. He described a series of transactions in which the land was divided into three parcels and sold through "dummies" — thus covering up, he said, how much actually was received in the sale. He said the local bought back the third parcel in 1955 for $35,000, or more than it had paid for the entire tract to begin with. Nothing in the union's books, Salinger said, showed that the officers had reaped a profit.

Surplus Labor Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has listed three Ohio areas as having 6 to 8.9 per cent surplus labor, which it terms substantial. They are Canton, Lorain-Youngstown and Steubenville.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a lone, mature-age woman, in a large family. The others are married, with children and grandchildren. I am sure that many of your women readers are in this category and need guidance as I do.

So much seems expected of us, of time and material aid, if anyone in the family needs help. Unfortunately (that's the only word for it), I feel a great deal of family responsibility. Why I don't know. I have a nice position and am not dependent upon anyone, thank God.

Just where should we draw the line and refuse instead of acceding? I anticipate another demand in the near future, when I may be asked to lend money to a nephew whom I helped once before. My brother says (angrily) that the boy's parents, not I, should have met that need.

I am saving for an extended trip to Europe, the dream of a lifetime, and will be sinking much of my hard earned money into what well may be my "last fling," as I am getting on in years. I will be termed selfish, I expect, should I turn down the request if it comes—probably I will feel guilty about it. But sooner or later I must set a precedent in self-defense. How do I get off the merry-go-round?

I am a religious person and many times have turned the other cheek to keep peace and somehow I can't reconcile my kind consideration with their unconcern about me. I am known to have a good sense of humor—and thank God for it. To get slightly humorous, perhaps the solution of my problem is to find "a man of my own."

D. E.

DEAR D.E.: In your letter, here condensed, you mention that your tastes and mode of living as a lone business woman, are as foreign to them (meaning your married next of kin) as their lives are different from yours.

Also you say that you feel like an outcast at times, when they are discussing children and grandchildren; and that you are dismayed by a wistful sense of their neglect of you, and ingratitude, especially during the holidays.

Against this background, you wonder why you continue to "feel a great deal of family responsibility," or, in other words, an almost irresistible urge to respond to family requests for help, whether or not such help is merited.

Well, I imagine the answer is, you are endowed with a normal woman's need to be needed. For a truly womanly woman, living is giving. Further, if you are a religious person (as you say) living a good life—hence in a state of grace to use the theological phrase, it follows that you are infused with charity. For faith, hope and charity are fruits of grace (or godliness).

And charity, as we know, is Christian love—or loving all men as brothers because they are sons of God. It is an act or feeling of affection or benevolence. It is good will to the poor and suffering. It is leniency in judging men and their actions. It is pure kindliness, impartially distributed. That's why you've gone on giving, in the teeth of ingratitude and exploitation, and why you've turned the other cheek, to keep peace.

As for where to draw the line in giving—"Justice is the perfection of charity," a theologian once told me. Undisciplined charity that drains the self is not true charity. Rather it is vague, uncertain sentimentality that benefits nobody. So, be fair to yourself. As the saying goes, "Be good to yourself," and give from a sense of abundance, not with a feeling of being robbed.

Remember "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." The accent is on the word "cheerful."

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Franklin County still uses an old-fashioned "jury wheel" for selecting persons to serve on county court juries.

At the start of the year, names of prospective jurors are placed inside the eight-sided, walnut wheel, more than 75 years old. When jury selection time comes at the beginning of each court session, the wheel is given a spin. When it stops, the sheriff breaks the wax seal, pulls out the necessary number of name cards, then the wheel is resealed until the next session of court.

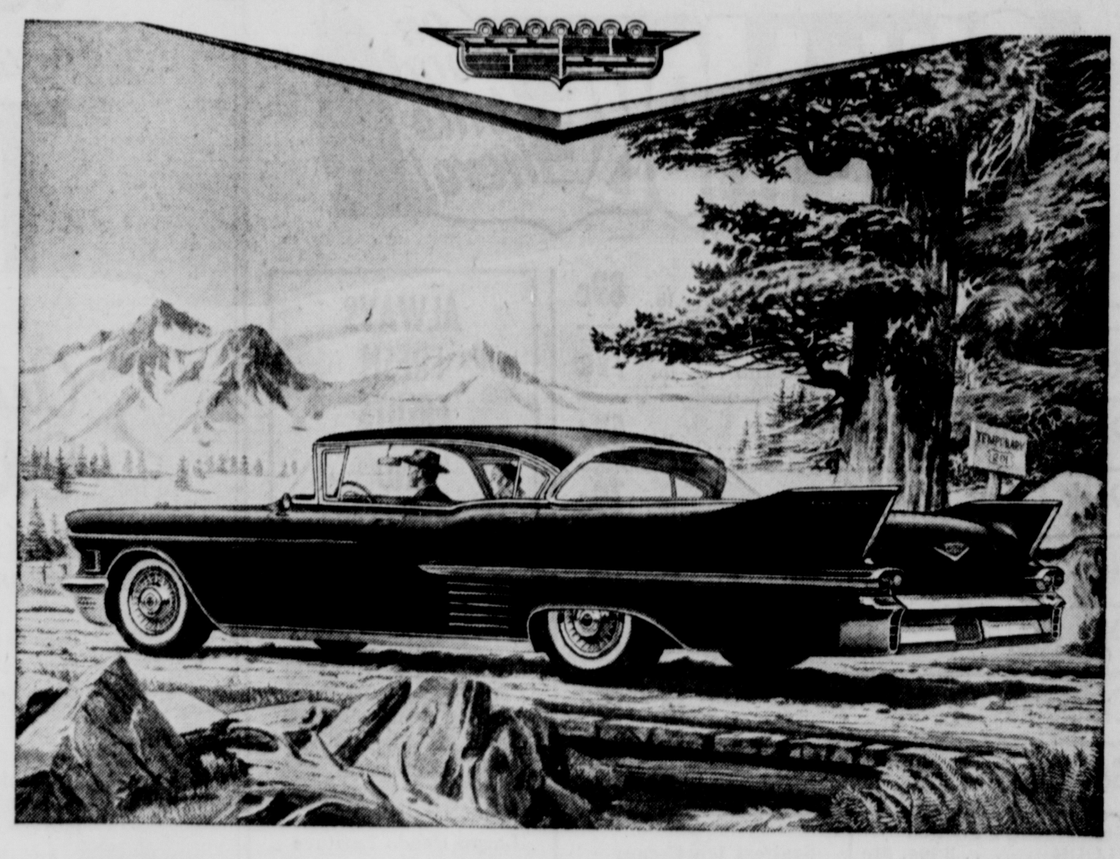
Cadillac



World's Best Answer to a Detour!

Pretty rough road, you'd say? Well, you certainly wouldn't be aware of it if you were sitting where these happy travelers are.

For they're in a 1958 Cadillac—and here, beyond a doubt, is the world's best substitute for a new highway!

Just what is this special Cadillac magic that works such wonders on a rough roadway? Well, let's take a look and see what happens to a bump when it meets the wheels of a new 1958 Cadillac.

First of all, it is softened by those big, buoyant, full-sized Cadillac tires

. . . then it is gently cushioned by those massive, perfectly balanced Cadillac coil springs

. . . or, if the extra-cost option of air suspension is present, it is subdued by that miraculous cushion of air that cradles the entire frame

. . . then it is diminished still further by Cadillac's new hydraulic shock absorbers and by its specially engineered system of rubber body mountings.

And, of course, should any suggestion of it still remain, it meets its final demise in those deep, luxurious, Fleetwood-crafted seat cushions . . . and in the car's marvelous steadiness and balance.

All in all, it's the reason why a journey in a new Cadillac is the finest distance between any two points.

We invite you to try it for yourself—and to get the full facts about all of the beautiful Cadillacs, including the distinguished Eldorado Brougham.

Ousted Union Chiefs Called

Probers Checking Lush Land Deal Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two ousted officials of the Operating Engineers Union were called before Senate rackets probers today for questioning about testimony linking them to $59,955.76 of "hidden profits" on a union land deal.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the special Senate committee, said Victor S. Swanson, fired as an international vice president and San Francisco boss of the union, and Ed Doran, suspended business agent of the San Francisco local, would be asked about testimony that they split the profits on land deals carried out through "dummies."

Swanson and Doran have been listed by Kennedy as members of a self-styled reformer group which sought to oust William E. Maloney as the union's international president at its 1956 convention. Swanson had pledged a major cleanup of the union's affairs.

Maloney, himself under fire in the committee's inquiry, has pleaded he is too ill to testify. He did not respond to a subpoena.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) described the union as one with a history of violence including "gangland killings."

Pierra Salinger, a staff investigator for the committee, testified that land deals with funds of the sprawling San Francisco local 3 produced $59,955.76 of hidden profits for Doran and Swanson.

Salinger said the local put up $33,500 in 1953 to buy land in Stockton, Calif., on which to build a $300,000 labor center. He described a series of transactions in which the land was divided into three parcels and sold through "dummies" — thus covering up, he said, how much actually was received in the sale. He said the local bought back the third parcel in 1955 for $35,000, or more than it had paid for the entire tract to begin with. Nothing in the union's books, Salinger said, showed that the officers had reaped a profit.

Surplus Labor Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has listed three Ohio areas as having 6 to 8.9 per cent surplus labor, which it terms substantial. They are Canton, Lorain-Youngstown and Steubenville.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a lone, mature-age woman, in a large family. The others are married, with children and grandchildren. I am sure that many of your women readers are in this category and need guidance as I do.

So much seems expected of us, of time and material aid, if anyone in the family needs help. Unfortunately (that's the only word for it), I feel a great deal of family responsibility. Why I don't know. I have a nice position and am not dependent upon anyone, thank God.

Just where should we draw the line and refuse instead of acceding? I anticipate another demand in the near future, when I may be asked to lend money to a nephew whom I helped once before. My brother says (angrily) that the boy's parents, not I, should have met that need.

I am saving for an extended trip to Europe, the dream of a lifetime, and will be sinking much of my hard earned money into what well may be my "last fling," as I am getting on in years. I will be termed selfish, I expect, should I turn down the request if it comes—probably I will feel guilty about it. But sooner or later I must set a precedent in self-defense. Congress May Claim Antarctic

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Who owns the vast, white continent at the bottom of the world where 12 nations have established 39 bases?

The American flag has been planted at the South Pole and may stay there for some years to come, but this country has claimed NOT one square mile of Antarctica.

Other nations have NOT been so reticent. In fact, they've asserted sovereignty to 75 per cent of the frozen continent. This despite the fact that 75 per cent of Antarctica's 5,500,000 square miles has been seen only by American explorers until the Sir Edmund Hillary and D.. Vivian Fuchs (British) expeditions crossed it.

Principal claimants are the British commonwealth countries — England, New Zealand and South Africa — the Norway, Argentina, Chile and France. The Chilean, Argentine and British claims conflict.

The United States recognizes none of these claims. The State department has taken the position that the claims cannot be taken seriously unless they are accompanied by occupation, settlements and inhabitants.

* * *

TODAY, THE VAST continent where winter reigns in perpetuity is populated as never before. Twelve nations are studying the icy wastes as their contribution to the International Geophysical Year.

Many Americans are disturbed over what may happen after the IGY ends. There are definite indications that some participating nations will place their bases on a permanent status, notably the Soviet Union.

It is believed Russia will follow up its IGY activities in the Antarctic with a claim to some of the lands. The Soviets already claim the continent was discovered by a Russian, Adm. Thaddeus von Bellinghausen, who circumnavigated Antarctica between 1819 and 1821.

He is believed, however, NOT to have seen the continent itself, confining himself to explorations of two offshore islands, Peter I and Alexander I. New England fur seal hunters generally are credited with being the first to sight the continent, in 1820.

In order to cope with what many believe to be a Russian threat to what may become a strategic area in the event of conflict, renewed efforts will be made in Congress in 1958 to reverse the American position.

Rep. Thor C. Tollefson (R), Washington, will make another effort to obtain enactment of legislation laying claim to American sovereignty over various areas of the southern continent, most bearing American names.

Tollefson's efforts are expected to command more support than they have in the past. Congress is becoming more interested in Antarctica. Not only has it appropriated more funds for American activities there, but two parties of congressmen visited the continent in 1957.

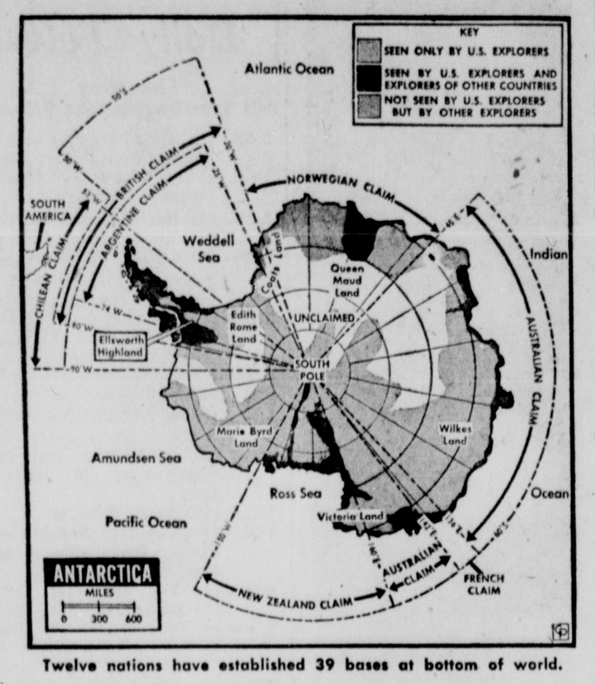
Tollefson points out that the vast continent, twice the size of continental United States, would have great military value in the event of war. He emphasized that destruction of the Panama canal would compel all shipping between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to pass around the southern tip of South America.

"Any informed military planner knows," said the congressman, "that the nation which controls Palmer peninsula at the northern tip of the Antarctic continent could strangle America's lifeline in the event of another war."

* * *

AIR ROUTES over the frozen continent also will play an important role in the near future, many believe, just as they do today over the North Polar regions, and weather stations will be required there, in peace and war.

There also are those who believe that some day atomic power will make it possible to remove, profitably, the mineral wealth which Antarctica is believed to contain The late Adm. Richard E. Byrd reported he had sighted, in his South Polar explorations, one of the world's largest vein of coal, as well as evidence of gold, silver, uranium, oil, copper, iron and molybdenum.



Twelve nations have established 39 bases at bottom of world.

The thief forced open a rear door, looted candy and soft drink vending machines and found a money sack containing $343.91 hidden in the basement of the building.

Weeky Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Supermarket meat men, battling what one of them called the roughest month to six weeks in memory, turned to their old standbys, beef and pork, this week in an attempt to find an attractive meat bargain.

They are featuring pot roast, rib roast, steak, chuck and round roasts of beef and a variety of pork cuts in store displays and advertisements. Beef and pork prices are comparatively high, but other meats are even more so.

Veal chops, for example, are selling for $1.10 a pound in the New York metropolitan area. Leg of lamb is reported 2 to 4 cents a pound more expensive in some sections and frying chickens are 4 to 10 cents a pound higher in many areas.

Some Eastern chains are trying to win the battle of the price bulge by offering turkeys, which are in good supply. Elsewhere stores attempt to take the housewife's mind off her troubles with such unusual offerings as ducklings, spare ribs and jumbo shrimp.

Best buy in the vegetable bins is a bag of potatoes, although indications are the starchy staple may get expensive in the months ahead. Spuds from last fall's storage crops are running low and the winter crop is expected to be 16 per cent lower than last year because of bad weather and acreage cuts.

Good buys also can be discovered among broccoli, onions, iceberg lettuce, celery, cabbage, carrots, sweet potatoes and the greens — spinach, kale and collard. Onions and lettuce are edging upward in price.

Apples still rate as the best fruit buy, although oranges and grapefruit are a little lower.

Ohio Adds Up Superhighway Building Total

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In the last few years, Ohio has constructed 338 miles of superhighways on its 1,344-mile interstate system.

More than one-half of that mileage is represented by 174.5 miles of the Ohio Turnpike, added to the interstate system. The Turnpike was completed Sept. 30, 1955, before the start of the interstate system program.

The Ohio Department of Highways has opened to traffic another 153.9 miles of new interstate roads, much of which started before the big interstate program became effective. The roads are being used but need some additional work to meet all interstate standards—like limited access and separation of local roads.

In addition, the department has completed 8.4 miles of interstate highways which entirely meet interstate standards.

A Bureau of Public Roads spokesman recently said that 1,255 miles of interstate roads were completed throughout the country in the last 18 months. Part of this was started before the new program became effective.

Last year, the Ohio Highway Department placed under contract 66 miles of the Cincinnati to Conneaut Freeway (Ohio 1), part of the interstate system in Ohio.

Bids for four more Freeway sections will be opened in February.

During the first six months of this year the department plans to open bids on projects with a total value of about 200 million dollars. Bids will be opened every other Tuesday through June 24.

The department hopes to place another 200 million dollars worth of projects under contract during the last six months of the year.

Sox Dispenser

EL RENO, Okla. (AP)—Bob Evans got tired of having to hunt around for his socks in the drawer, so he has come up with a gadget—"sox box."

It's a little wooden box that works like a candy machine except that socks come out of the bott ., and they're free. Evans designed the 16-inch long box to hang on a wall and the wife just rolls the socks up and loads the box from the top. Hubby gets a fresh pair from the bottom.

The victims, Edward J. Allore, 52, a part-time stevedore, and his wife Diana, 45, are believed to have been dead about 10 days.

Detectives said the couple began using the kitchen range for heat after a heater became defective. He said windows and the door were closed, so there was no ventilation for fumes from the burning gas.

Congress May Claim Antarctic

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Association Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Who owns the vast, white continent at the bottom of the world where 12 nations have established 39 bases?

The American flag has been planted at the South Pole and may stay there for some years to come, but this country has claimed NOT one square mile of Antarctica.

Other nations have NOT been so reticent. In fact, they've asserted sovereignty to 75 per cent of the frozen continent. This despite the fact that 75 per cent of Antarctica's 5,500,000 square miles has been seen only by American explorers until the Sir Edmund Hillary and D.. Vivian Fuchs (British) expeditions crossed it.

Principal claimants are the British commonwealth countries — England, New Zealand and South Africa — the Norway, Argentina, Chile and France. The Chilean, Argentine and British claims conflict.

The United States recognizes none of these claims. The State department has taken the position that the claims cannot be taken seriously unless they are accompanied by occupation, settlements and inhabitants.

• • •

TODAY, THE VAST continent where winter reigns in perpetuity is populated as never before. Twelve nations are studying the icy wastes as their contribution to the International Geophysical Year.

Many Americans are disturbed over what may happen after the IGY ends. There are definite indications that some participating nations will place their bases on a permanent status, notably the Soviet Union.

It is believed Russia will follow up its IGY activities in the Antarctic with a claim to some of the lands. The Soviets already claim the continent was discovered by a Russian, Adm. Thaddeus von Bellinghausen, who circumnavigated Antarctica between 1819 and 1821.

He is believed, however, NOT to have seen the continent itself, confining himself to explorations of two offshore islands, Peter I and Alexander I. New England fur seal hunters generally are credited with being the first to sight the continent, in 1820.

In order to cope with what many believe to be a Russian threat to what may become a strategic area in the event of conflict, renewed efforts will be made in Congress in 1958 to reverse the American position.

Rep. Thor C. Tollefson (R), Washington, will make another effort to obtain enactment of legislation laying claim to American sovereignty over various areas of the southern continent, most bearing American names.

Tollefson's efforts are expected to command more support than they have in the past. Congress is becoming more interested in Antarctica. Not only has it appropriated more funds for American activities there, but two parties of congressmen visited the continent in 1957.

Tollefson points out that the vast continent, twice the size of continental United States, would have great military value in the event of war. Coming Up--Bargain Journey To Europe

By ART CROCKETT
Written for Central Press

As soon as the Navy and the U. S. Maritime commission approve the plans now in their offices, H. B. Cantor's 20-year dream will come true.

His plans call for construction of two giant superliners, each carrying 6,000 passengers in an operation designed to revolutionize trans-Atlantic travel.

The cost per passenger: Fifty dollars one way.

Reservations can be made as soon as the keels are laid.

Cantor, president of the Carter hotel chain, long has asked the question: "Why not inaugurate Atlantic crossings within the reach of the average wage earner's pocketbook?"

To find the answer, he called on the services of Vladimir Yourkevitch, the Normandie's architect. The result of Yourkevitch's labor was a detailed plan for a 90,000-ton ship, 1,150 feet long, with a cruising speed of 34 knots, making it the largest and fastest ship afloat.

* * *

BY WAY of comparison, the Queen Elizabeth is 1,083 feet and weighs 83,000 tons. Cantor's ships will have 6,000 berths each; the Queen Elizabeth has 2,200 berths.

Cantor expects to spend a sum estimated at $100 million to $135 million on each ship. He's going to operate the vessels without a government subsidy, although financing the cost of construction has been made possible through recent amendments of the Maritime Financing act.

Says Cantor, "Making possible frequent travel between this country and Europe will foster a better understanding between the two continents. In this respect, the ships will be named Peace and Good Will."

The superliners are expected to operate between New York City and a port in Belgium. They will make the trip in four days, pass each other in mid-ocean.

One of the more important deviations from the traditional ocean-going liner is the one class service. Fifty dollars buys transportation and a stateroom, which will feature a closed-circuit TV set, air-conditioning and private bath. Stateroom accommodations will consist of about 2,000 two-passenger staterooms, 100 single staterooms, 300 triples and 350 for four persons each.

"These ships won't be luxury liners," says Cantor, of Kew Gardens, New York. "I feel the public is having a lot of luxuries and services foisted upon it that it does not want and shouldn't have to pay for."

A passenger looking for caviar and champagne on board will have difficulty satisfying his delicate tastes. However, he won't go hungry because each ship will have a 1,500-seat cafeteria and a 1,000-seat formal dining room. There will be two automat-type canteens on each deck and four bars and cocktail lounges.

Meals will be extra, but figured at three a day the outside cost is estimated at four dollars a day.

Each ship will feature two indoor swimming pools and one outdoor pool. There will be a skating rink, two theaters, shopping centers and a concert hall.

* * *

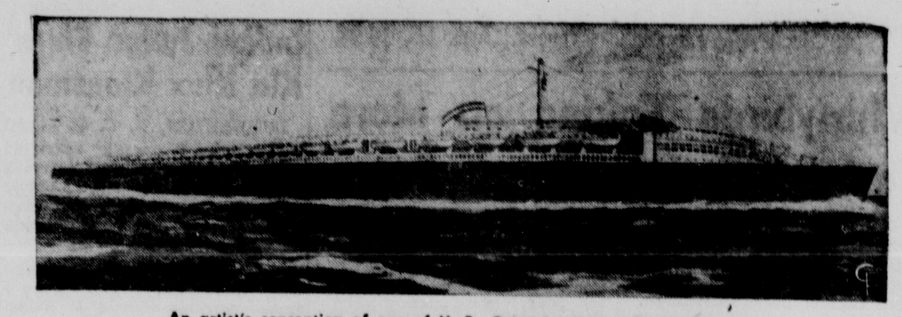
DURING THE winter months ocean-going conventions and trade exhibits can make excellent use of Convention Hall, a double-decked, glass-enclosed aircraft hanger space with a 4,000-seat capacity.

Twenty air-tight compartments on each ship is a feature which will make them unsinkable. in time of war, they easily can be converted to aircraft carriers or division-strength troopships.

With a wealth of hotel operating experience behind him, Cantor now is working out a low-cost, two-week, packaged vacation deal which will appeal to those who are partial to installment plan buying. An all-expense tour will cost $330 and can be had with a $30 down payment, balance in 10 months.

Mountain Corn

PALISADE, Colo. (AP)— Palisade in western Colorado is a long way from the midwest corn belt, but farmer Fred Maurer grew cornstalks 15 feet tall. He calls it tamale corn because the husks are used to wrap tamales, a Mexican delicacy made of crushed corn and minced meat.



An artist's conception of one of H. B. Cantor's proposed superliners.

1909 Ship's List Used Against Lias

WASHINGTON (AP) —A ship's passenger listing in 1909 has been termed the government's "cornerstone" for all its evidence in deportation proceedings against William (Big Bill) Lias.

This manifest shows Lias entered the United States as a child in 1909 instead of being born, as Lias contends, in Wheeling, W. Va. This government contention was included in a brief filed Wednesday.

A brief filed for Lias in his fight against an immigration board's order for his deportation to Greece contends, however, that the board made numerous and serious errors.

The briefs were filed with Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy of Federal District Court who recently heard oral arguments in the case.

The court has taken under advisement the question of whether there is substantial evidence in the record to support the board's deportation finding against the former Wheeling Downs race track owner and gambler.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Dyer Justice Taylor, in his brief, reviewed testimony concerning what he described as efforts by Lias to coerce a doctor into providing Lias with a birth certificate.

Lias has contended he has a birth certificate, of delayed issuance, to show he was born in Wheeling. This certificate, Lias says, is backed by an affidavit by Lias' brother John, and by school attendance and voting records.

But Taylor contended in his brief that testimony shows that Lias and two companions visited a Dr. Rau of Frederick City, Md., now dead, and unsuccessfully sought a birth certificate.

Sudden Riches Fail To Change Farmer

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Give up farming?

"Heavens, no, at least not right away," was the rejoinder of a North Dakota farm grandmother who is inheriting nearly a quarter of a million dollars from the estate of a retired California lumberman's widow.

Mrs. George Landman, 68, Kempton, N. D., learned Tuesday that a Los Angeles court had ruled her the beneficiary of half of Mrs. Sara Ann Atkinson's $465,000 estate.

Her husband was a little more definite than his wife on the subject of giving up farming—"maybe next year," he said.

Coming Up--Bargain Journey To Europe

By ART CROCKETT
Written for Central Press

As soon as the Navy and the U. S. Maritime commission approve the plans now in their offices, H. B. Cantor's 20-year dream will come true.

His plans call for construction of two giant superliners, each carrying 6,000 passengers in an operation designed to revolutionize trans-Atlantic travel.

The cost per passenger: Fifty dollars one way.

Reservations can be made as soon as the keels are laid.

Cantor, president of the Carter hotel chain, long has asked the question: "Why not inaugurate Atlantic crossings within the reach of the average wage earner's pocketbook?"

To find the answer, he called on the services of Vladimir Yourkevitch, the Normandie's architect. The result of Yourkevitch's labor was a detailed plan for a 90,000-ton ship, 1,150 feet long, with a cruising speed of 34 knots, making it the largest and fastest ship afloat.

* * *

BY WAY of comparison, the Queen Elizabeth is 1,083 feet and weighs 83,000 tons. Cantor's ships will have 6,000 berths each; the Queen Elizabeth has 2,200 berths.

Cantor expects to spend a sum estimated at $100 million to $135 million on each ship. He's going to operate the vessels without a government subsidy, although financing the cost of construction has been made possible through recent amendments of the Maritime Financing act.

Says Cantor, "Making possible frequent travel between this country and Europe will foster a better understanding betwee the two continents. In this respect, the ships will be named Peace and Good Will."

The superliners are expected to operate between New York City and a port in Belgium. They will make the trip in four days, pass each other in mid-ocean.

One of the more important deviations from the traditional ocean-going liner is the one class service. Fifty dollars buys transportation and a stateroom, which will feature a closed-circuit TV set, air-conditioning and private bath. Stateroom accommodations will consist of about 2,000 two-passenger staterooms, 100 single staterooms, 300 triples and 350 for four persons each.

"These ships won't be luxury liners," says Cantor, of Kew Gardens, New York. "I feel the public is having a lot of luxuries and services foisted upon it that it does not want and shouldn't have to pay for."

A passenger looking for caviar and champagne on board will have difficulty satisfying his delicate tastes. However, he won't go hungry because each ship will have a 1,500-seat cafeteria and a 1,000-seat formal dining room. There will be two automat-type canteens on each deck and four bars and cocktail lounges.

Meals will be extra, but figured at three a day the outside cost is estimated at four dollars a day.

Each ship will feature two indoor swimming pools and one outdoor pool. There will be a skating rink, two theaters, shopping centers and a concert hall.

* * *

DURING THE winter months ocean-going conventions and trade exhibits can make excellent use of Convention Hall, a double-decked, glass-enclosed aircraft hanger space with a 4,000-seat capacity.

Twenty air-tight compartments on each ship is a feature which will make them unsinkable. in time of war, they easily can be converted to aircraft carriers or division-strength troopships.

With a wealth of hotel operating experience behind him, Cantor now is working out a low-cost, two-week, packaged vacation deal which will appeal to those who are partial to installment plan buying. An all-expense tour will cost $330 and can be had with a $30 down payment, balance in 10 months.

Mountain Corn

PALISADE, Colo. (AP)— Palisade in western Colorado is a long way from the midwest corn belt, but farmer Fred Maurer grew cornstalks 15 feet tall. He calls it tamale corn because the husks are used to wrap tamales, a Mexican delicacy made of crushed corn and minced meat.

An artist's conception of one of H. B. Cantor's proposed superliners.

1909 Ship's List Used Against Lias

WASHINGTON (AP) —A ship's passenger listing in 1909 has been termed the government's "cornerstone" for all its evidence in deportation proceedings against William (Big Bill) Lias.

This manifest shows Lias entered the United States as a child in 1909 instead of being born, as Lias contends, in Wheeling, W. Va. This government contention was included in a brief filed Wednesday.

A brief filed for Lias in his fight against an immigration board's order for his deportation to Greece contends, however, that the board made numerous and serious errors.

The briefs were filed with Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy of Federal District Court who recently heard oral arguments in the case.

The court has taken under advisement the question of whether there is substantial evidence in the record to support the board's deportation finding against the former Wheeling Downs race track owner and gambler.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Dyer Justice Taylor, in his brief, reviewed testimony concerning what he described as efforts by Lias to coerce a doctor into providing Lias with a birth certificate.

Lias has contended he has a birth certificate, of delayed issuance, to show he was born in Wheeling. This certificate, Lias says, is backed by an affidavit by Lias' brother John, and by school attendance and voting records.

But Taylor contended in his brief that testimony shows that Lias and two companions visited a Dr. Rau of Frederick City, Md., now dead, and unsuccessfully sought a birth certificate.

Sudden Riches Fail To Change Farmer

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Give up farming?

"Heavens, no, at least not right away," was the rejoinder of a North Dakota farm grandmother who is inheriting nearly a quarter of a million dollars from the estate of a retired California lumberman's widow.

Mrs. George Landman, 68, Kempton, N. D., learned Tuesday that a Los Angeles court had ruled her the beneficiary of half of Mrs. Sara Ann Atkinson's $465,000 estate.

Her husband was a little more definite than his wife on the subject of giving up farming—"maybe next year," he said.

Did you ever, at this ti of the year, play the game "Thread the Needle?"

Now we're not talking about the indoor, party one, where you held hands with your girl partner and caught someone in the circle as the line of players passed under your arms. The fun we have in mind was played out of doors on the snow, with sleds and tobogans.

The idea was to sail down the hillside as fast as your sled could take you and slip through an open gate or a hole in the hedge-fence, without mishap. Many a bruise or scratch was the result, but the stigma of failure was much less. If you tried and missed going through the eye, rather than not making a try at all, you were not branded a "panty-waist." You really graduated "cum laude", and got your "wings" in this game when you successfully piloted a loaded bobsled through a covered bridge.

After a big snow, and wherever there was a covered bridge with one of the approaches having a long, steep decline, making a good coasting hill, everybody red-blooded enough to enjoy winter sports, would be on hand to carry snow into the bridge and c o v e r the flooring with enough of the white stuff to pack down level and made slick.

Some pretty big sleds were owned in communities which had such natural coasting advantages, many were close to 50 feet long, about 8 feet across and could hold as many as 30 or 40 people. To successfully "thread the needle", that is to hit the opening of the bridge, with only a few inches to spare on each side, required a skilled "navigator", to do the aiming, and two husky individuals to do the steering.

This is only one of the many recollections which could come to most any old-timer of this region, when he recalls many of the covered bridges of Pickaway County. Many of these b r i d g e s were "free", but there were some which were toll bridges, owned by companies and controlled by paid toll-gatherers. Some were even privately owned, and the proprietors did their own toll-taking.

* * *

THERE ARE many fascinating yarns which have been handed down to us by our folks concerning some of the goings-on around these small owner-operated short-cuts to cross-roads' stores and gathering places.

One, which we recall, had to do with what some of the country folk in the neighborhood thought were unreasonable toll charges, and they rebelled and would not patronize the bridge.

The weather eventually wrecked this owner's business. A long, dry summer came along and everyone used the old ford above the bridge, and, to top it off, there followed an exceptionally cold winter, when the creek was frozen solid for several months.

Many times the d i s g u s ' e d bridge-owner would spend half of the night in breaking up the smooth ice at the crossing, which everyone was using, only to find it frozen over again by morning. By spring, the bridge-owner admitted he was licked and sold out, and the bridge soon became a free one.

All kinds of attempts were made to dodge paying tax to cross toll bridges. It is said that one tight-wad always waited until dark and climbed up on the roof and crossed the bridge without the owner suspecting. B u t eventually he w a s caught—he fell through a rotted place in the roof, practically into the arms of the collector of tolls, who was below waiting for him.

The inside timbers of the old covered bridges v e r e favored places for all sorts of advertising, for tobacco, patent medicines, foods and other wares of the nearby town's stores, and the advance crews of circuses and fairs always tacked some of their bright-colored posters at each end of the bridges.

A story, which has survived, tells about one of these eye-catching placards about the Chicago World's Fair which aroused the curiosity of one of our county residents as he passed it weekly on his way to and from town. By the middle of the summer, when his farm work slacked-up a little, he and the missus made off for the Columbian Exposition, o n l y to learn when they got there, that they were a year too late—as the result of reading a two-year old sign which was still bright a n d new inside the bridge protected from the weather.

* * *

THERE ARE many tall-tales, which have to do with successfully getting through a covered bridge late Saturday nights by those who were a little "under the weather" when they left town. Now the wisest of those who were in the habit of getting into this condition, put their trust in their faithful horse—gave it free rein, and usually reached home safe and sound.

But, we've heard tell of one stubborn cuss, who delighted in boasting that he was never so confused but what he could d r i v e home without mishap through the Red Bridge and all. One night, about midnight one of our farmers, not far from town, was jerked from his sleep by a racket which seemed to come from his buggy-shed along the road. He got into some clothes as quickly as possible. Taking his lantern, he hurried down to see what was going on. He found his shed crammed tight with a strange horse and a buggy with a pair of blinking eyes peering from under the back curtain. From it came this cocky — "Hey, Bub, why the heck didn't you tell ush they nailed boards over the hinder-end of thish-here bridge?"

Italian Designer Shuns Newest 'Sack' Styles

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Emilio Federick Schuberth is having none of high fashion's current trend toward shorter skirts and the sack style. He's going the other way.

Presenting his new spring and summer line here, Schuberth startled some 600 foreign buyers and fashion writers with sashed waists and long skirts.

He dropped the hemline to 11-12 inches from the floor, lower than it has been since Christian Dior's "New Look" of 11 years ago.

Whirlybirds Taking on More Variety of Jobs Every Day

By FRANK WATSON
Central Press Association Writer

It was one of those hot July days, the kind when a fellow would like a slice of juicy watermelon.

W. I. Fifield was working in his watermelon patch on his farm in Brawley, Calif., when he heard a whirring n o i s e. He turned around and saw a man helping himself to three of his big watermelons. Fifield couldn't do anything about it though, because the man had scooped them up from his helicopter, then whirred away.

This is just one more example (though not a recommended one) of the versatility of the helicopter.

Early in its career, the 'copter won a starting place on the aerial team by performing such routine jobs as crop dusting and spraying, power line patrol and air taxi and rescue service.

Today, this flying machine is moving against the age-old barrier of inaccessible terrain and opening up new areas for man's explorations and development. Dense jungles, towering mountains and broad rivers fall before the coming of the 'copter.

* * *

WITHOUT THE WAVING of a magical wand, the helicopter turns into a fire engine, a streetcar, a camera, an ambulance, a sleigh, a dryer, or even a ranch hand out west. It also can become a bus or a boat or an ambulance. Sometimes it doubles as a crane or a tug. Its use seems limited only by its application.

The United States Forest service uses the downwash of the 'copter's rotor to check fires while fire hose is operated from the air. This is an invaluable aid in forest fire fighting.

"I Am a Camera" might be a good movie title for the helicopter. The film industry uses it as a tripod for aerial action shots. The 'copter also is the star of a television series.

This past C h r i s t m a s, Santa Claus transferrtd his bags of toys from his traditional sleigh to helicopters as many communities celebrated his arrival in this manner.

In Louisiana, oil w o r k e r s climb aboard helicopters as other workers would a streetcar to go 50 miles to daily jobs at oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. One off-short operator flew nearly 150 thousand passengers last year.

These flying marvels truck in items ranging from chinchillas to donkeys, newspapers, films, mine detectors and furniture. Helicopters have resembled life savers to boats stranded on sand bars by blowing them off and back to the safety of shore.

The c i t r u s industry wouldn't want to do without this versatile tool. It can dry the frost from citrus fruits and cherry orchards, thus saving them from ruin.

Ships weighing more than three thousand tons have been towed safely by these whirlybirds. Survey teams and sportsmen have made use of helicopters on floats to spot whales or just to fish. And, they come in handy for water ski towing.

On the farm, helicopters do the work of tractors and on the range they do the work of 15 cowboys by herding cattle, patrolling fences and riding the range.

The commercial helicopter operator does an annual business running into the millions of dollars. When the versatility of the helicopter is taken into account, it's no wonder.

A 'copter demonstrates how a casualty could be lifted out of a badly-wrecked building.

SUB Lawsuit Dismissal Denied

After the motion by Eugene P. Indian Judge Fines Klu Klux Klansman

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP) — An Indian judge Wednesday convicted a Ku Klux Klansman of carrying a concealed weapon and of public drunkenness at a KKK rally near here Saturday that Indians broke up with gunfire.

Asst. Recorder's Court Judge Lacy Manor gave K l a n s m a n James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N. C., a lecture before giving him a 60-day suspended sentence upon payment of a $60 fine and court costs. It could have been two years and $100 fine.

"You came into a community where there is a happy, contented people who frown on violence," the 55-year-old judge told the Klansman.

DiSalle's Hat Is 10th in Dem Contest

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, 10th Democrat to enter the race for the gubernatorial nomination, launched his campaign today with an attack on the record of Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill.

DiSalle, who served as director of price stabilization in the Truman administration and who is a former Toledo mayor, won the Democratic nomination for governor in 1956. He lost to O'Neill in the general election by nearly 400,000 votes after waging a vigorous personal appearance campaign throughout the state.

"The lag between promises and performance has been almost unbelievable," said DiSalle, speaking of O'Neill's record.

Others who have declared their candidacy are Clingan Jackson, Youngstown newsman and former state senator; Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner; Cleveland mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze; Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer; Mrs. Vivienne Suarez, Columbus housewife; Robert W. Arndts of West Alexandria; Michael J. Crosser, Cleveland Heights salesman; Mitchell Smith of Cleveland and Robert W. Gorman, Cincinnati attorney.

DiSalle, who is 50, declared that his decision to run "was not an easy decision to make."

Since the 1956 campaign, when the plump DiSalle weighed 215 pounds, he has slimmed down to 184—his "fighting weight," he calls it.

Mrs. DiSalle was not enthusiastic over the announcement. She told a reporter: "I'll admit I look with some reluctance on Mike's being away campaigning again. But I want him to be happy. I know he feels he has a duty to run."

SUB Lawsuit Dismissal Denied

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Judge Erskine Maiden Jr. Wednesday denied an assistant Ohio attorney general's motion for dismissal of the United Steelworkers of America suit to win full supplemental unemployment benefits for Ohio workers.

After the motion by Eugene P. Everhart was overruled, attorney Herschel Krieger of Canton set forth the steelworkers opening arguments against an Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation ruling that supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) must be deducted from state unemployment compensation benefits.

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP) — An Indian judge Wednesday convicted a Ku Klux Klansman of carrying a concealed weapon and of public drunkenness at a KKK rally near here Saturday that Indians broke up with gunfire.

Asst. Recorder's Court Judge Lacy Manor gave Klansman James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N. C., a lecture before giving him a 60-day suspended sentence upon payment of a $60 fine and court costs. It could have been two years and $100 fine.

"You came into a community where there is a happy, contented people who frown on violence," the 55-year-old judge told the Klansman.

DiSalle's Hat Is 10th in Dem Contest

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, 10th Democrat to enter the race for the gubernatorial nomination, launched his campaign today with an attack on the record of Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill.

DiSalle, who served as director of price stabilization in the Truman administration and who is a former Toledo mayor, won the Democratic nomination for governor in 1956. He lost to O'Neill in the general election by nearly 400,000 votes after waging a vigorous personal appearance campaign throughout the state.

"The lag between promises and performance has been almost unbelievable," said DiSalle, speaking of O'Neill's record.

Others who have declared their candidacy are Clingan Jackson, Youngstown newsman and former state senator; Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner; Cleveland mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze; Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer; Mrs. Vivienne Suarez, Columbus housewife; Robert W. Arndts of West Alexandria; Michael J. Crosser, Cleveland Heights salesman; Mitchell Smith of Cleveland and Robert W. Gorman, Cincinnati attorney.

DiSalle, who is 50, declared that his decision to run "was not an easy decision to make."

Since the 1956 campaign, when the plump DiSalle weighed 215 pounds, he has slimmed down to 184—his "fighting weight," he calls it.

Mrs. DiSalle was not enthusiastic over the announcement. She told a reporter: "I'll admit I look with some reluctance on Mike's being away campaigning again. But I want him to be happy. I know he feels he has a duty to run."

Board Control Giving Wolves Big 10 Lead

Conference Statistics Show Michigan Ahead In Rebound Average

CHICAGO (AP)—Control of the boards has been Michigan's password to the Big Ten basketball lead.

Official conference statistics show that the Wolverines rank fifth in field goal percentage with .356, but they are No. 1 in rebounds with an average of 52 recoveries in posting a 3-1 league record.

Ohio State, locked with Indiana in second place with 3-2, is second in rebounds with a 51 average while the Hoosiers are third with better than 46.

Michigan won't get back into conference action until it entertains Purdue Feb. 1, in a regionally televised game. Ohio State's next Big Ten start is against Purdue Monday. Indiana is idle in conference play until facing Minnesota Feb. 3.

Only two Big Ten games are slated Saturday, Iowa at Minnesota for an afternoon TV attraction and Northwestern at Michigan State. Illinois meets Notre Dame in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader show with Marquette facing Loyola of Chicago in the nightcap.

Lack of height resulting in the poorest rebound mark in the conference, an average of 31, reflects Illinois' last place standing with a 1-3 mark. The Illini are third in hitting field goals at a .384 clip and third in free throw shooting with .716.

The hottest shooting team is Indiana with .412 from the floor while Northwestern is next with .405. Indiana's .758 also tops the foul line accuracy with Michigan second with .736.

Indiana's Archie Dees leads the individual scoring with a 26.6 average, followed by Don Ohl of Illinois with 24.3, George Kline of Minnesota with 22.7 and Pete Tillotson of Michigan with 20.8.

Dees is tops in field goal accuracy with .589 and John Green of Michigan State is second with .520. Green, who is twentieth in the scoring race with a 14.5 mark, is first in grabbing rebounds. He has retrieved 74 ir four games. Frank Howard of Ohio State has 75 and Dees 71 — both in five games.

Redlegs Say Parking Still Big Problem

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs still have their parking problems even though the city council voted Wednesday to authorize a $2 million bond issue to provide parking facilities.

The difficulty stemmed around the exact terms of an agreement between the city and the baseball club, although indications are all will be ironed out.

The city wants the baseball club to agree to remain here for at least five years. The original proposal was that the club would be liable for $2 million if it abrogated the agreement.

The ball club wants the city to agree not to raise the three per cent admissions tax during the five years and to agree to spend $2 million for parking space, not just provide 2,600 parking spaces.

Council members deferred action on the agreement because of differences over the admissions tax clause and the $2 million expenditure clause.

The ball club had proposed it be relieved of its obligations if the tax should be increased. It also asked for the expenditure of $2 million on the theory the expenditure of that amount of money might provide even more parking space.

Mayor Donald P. Clancy said the bonds would not be issued until the agreement with the ball club is signed. He said the bond issue ordinance could be repealed.

Ashville, Deers Meet in Finals

By J. I. SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

In the Pickaway County Junior High tournament last night Wayne fell by the wayside at the hands of a polished Ashville quintet, 47 - 26. Williamsport utilized a fast break to come from behind in the third quarter and cemented a berth in the finals with a 38 to 27 win over Darby.

In the first game of the evening at Jackson Twp. gym, the Williamsport Deers shot ahead in the first quarter to take a 11-3 lead. The Trojans didn't get a field goal attempt until 2½ minutes remained in the period as the Deers monopolized the ball and both bankboards.

Both teams posted identical scores in the second quarter and Williamsport remained on top, 15-7. Darby couldn't settle down in the first half and committed too many turnovers which the Deers capitalized on.

Led by Bobby McPherson, who handled the ball as if he were varsity material, the Trojans rallied early in the third period to go ahead 18-15, before Williamsport could score. The Deers settled down after the opening shock wore off and regained the margin to lead at the three quarter mark, 25-18.

• • •

THE DEERS were kept in the game all the way by the stellar play of their center, Donny Steinhauser, who garnered 19 points during the game. Steinhauser was especially effective under the bankboards and made the difference between victory and defeat for Williamsport.

Coach John McPherson's son, Bobby, was the entire Darby team as he garnered 15 points, masterminded their attack, and at times dribbled through the entire Williamsport squad for a score. McPherson's favorite was a driving jump shot for which most Trojan stars are famous.

Williamsport shot 32 per cent from the field, making 16 of 49 attempts. They had a 46 per cent average from the free throw line sinking six of 13 opportunities.

Darby also attempted 49 shots, but only made 11 for a 22 per cent average. They had a very poor showing from the charity line, dunking five of 18 chances.

In the second game of the evening the Ashville Broncos downed a scrappy and overloaded Wayne team, 47-26. Wayne brought along 22 players for last night's game.

The Broncos jumped to a 13-8 first quarter lead as they displayed cage ability not seen too often in seventh and eighth grade contests. Dick Hollenback was the star attraction for Ashville as he shot from anywhere on the court with amazing accuracy, and made eight of nine shots at the free throw line. He set a new County free throw record last Monday when he sunk 23 of 25 chances in the foul shooting contest.

• • •

WAYNE was handicapped all through the game by over-anxiousness and committed too many fouls which Ashville was capitalized on. The Broncos shot 62 per cent from the charity line.

In the second quarter Ashville tallied 13 points to take a 26-10 lead at halftime as Wayne shot six per cent from the field, scoring only two points on Bill Giffin's tipins. The Broncos Tommy Rathburn made a big difference in the game as he towered over everyone with his six feet plus frame. Tom is much taller than his brother Don who is a member of Ashville's varsity starters.

Wayne still couldn't get started in the third period and trailed 40-16 at the three quarter mark. The ball game wouldn't have been too much of a contest had it not been for the three sets of brothers that participated. Between Ashville's Hollenbacks and Rathburns along with Wayne's Moores, a total of 44 points was scored out of 73 for both teams.

Wayne finally managed to outscore the Broncos in the final period, 10-7 as both teams substituted freely. Ashville shot 33 per cent from the field, scoring 16 buckets on 48 attempts.

Wayne didn't have too much luck from the field as they dropped in 11 of 65 attempts for 17 per cent. At least they can say they weren't afraid to shoot, cause many varsity coaches in the county would be amazed if they could persuade their boys to shoot as often. They had a 23 per cent free throw average.

Hollenback and Rathburn led the scoring for Ashville with 18 points each. Giffin led Wayne with 11, garnering seven in the fourth quarter.

The finals to be held at Jackson Saturday night will begin at 7 p. m. Ashville will meet Williamsport for the championship and Darby goes against Wayne in the consolation contest.

Paul Brown Plans Another Special Quarterback Trial

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown has announced that there will be an early training session for Cleveland Browns quarterback candidates next summer—for the third straight year.

He revealed the plan Wednesday night following receipt of a letter from quarterback Tommy O'Connell confirming the latter's intention of retiring from professional football and joining the University of Illinois coaching staff.

Milt Plum, regarded by Brown at the moment as the No. 1 quarterback, goes into the service for a six-month hitch within a couple of weeks. Other signal callers available include John Borton and Bobby Freeman, back from the 1957 squad, and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State, George Walker of Arkansas and Bob Winters of Utah State, all rookies.

Local Guard Unit Downs Service Co.

Circleville's Company I, Ohio National Guard cage team, blasted regimental service company, 147-68, in a runaway contest at the local armory last night.

The local guardsmen were paced by Ronnie Seall with 36 points, Bill Downs with 35 and Cecil Sowers with 32. Service company was led by D. Foreman with 23 tallies.

Texas A&M OKs Myers as Grid Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M College pulled the biggest surprise of its widespread hunt for a football coach Wednesday. It hired Jim Myers of Iowa State, a single-wing stylist who was once rejected.

Numerous other coaches had been mentioned as a possible successor to Paul (Bear) Bryant, who returned to Alabama, his alma mater.

The 51-day search for a coach and athletic director erupted into controversy between Aggie officials who seemed ready to interview anyone who would take the trip to Texas and alumni groups angered by what they considered bad publicity.

Two students, Gary Rollins of Houston, Tex., and John Hagler, La Grande, Tex., were credited with a key role in getting Myers to change his mind and accept the $16,000-a-year post, which also includes rent-free use of a house. He was given a four-year contract.

"They were dynamic, impressive young men with a sparkle in their eye, and they sold me, really," Myers said at Ames, Iowa. The two students headed a "get Myers" campaign among the student body.

Defeat by Auburn Viewed As Just What Tech Needed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It might sound screwy, but maybe Georgia Tech has lost just in time to win in college basketball.

Could be the 80-72 upset by Auburn Wednesday night was just what Tech needed before taking on Kentucky and Tennessee, running 1-2 in the Southeastern Conference, this weekend.

The defeat didn't hurt the Yellow Jackets (10-6). It was a non-conference game. But it should have ploughed under any signs of complacency that may have cropped up after four consecutive victories.

There already had been some talk Tech might be ready to pull another giant upset. Vanderbilt Coach Bob Polk, beaten 81-60 by Tech last Saturday, was so impressed he figured Tech could beat Tennessee Saturday and then take Kentucky Monday.

That double kill would hoist Tech from third (4-2) to second in SEC play. Kentucky is the leader at 5-0 with Tennessee second at 3-1.

The upset came on a light night that also saw St. Bonaventure defeat Niagara 69-66 and Duquesne whip Toledo 67-54.

A great floor game and a 30-point scoring touch by Jimmy Lee paid off for Auburn, now 6-6.

Rex Frederick, Auburn's high scorer tied it 45-all with a free throw and seconds later gave Auburn the lead for keeps with a field goal just before he fouled out.

Terry Randall kept Tech in the game until the closing minutes. He was high for the Engineers with 20 points. Soph Dave Denton, who has sparked Tech's surge since regaining his eligibility, scored 19.

The schedule — marking time during mid-term examinations—picks up a bit tonight. The feature game is Wichita at Bradley in a Missouri Valley Conference game. Wichita is the leader at 3-0 with Bradley, ranked 10th nationally, third at 6-1.

IBC Seeking Heavyweight Action Anew

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, wants the heavyweight division activated again and disclaims any feuding with champion Floyd Patterson's manager.

"D'Amato (Manager Cus D'Amato) says he won't do business with the IBC because we failed to live up to an agreement to get bouts for some of his preliminary fighters," said Norris. "Patterson simply is being used as a pawn in this thing, but I say let D'Amato go box for any promoter he wants (and I'd like a chance to compete with any other promoter) but let's get the heavyweight division activated again.

"Our hands are tied by D'Amato's refusal to sit down and talk," Norris continued. "I'm certainly not feuding with him. In this business, you can't afford feuds. I'd go to Alaska to make a heavyweight title match.

"Patterson already should have faced Eddie Machen or Zora Folley, who meet March 17 at San Francisco. And then, if he won, he could meet the winner of the Willie Pastrano-Roy Harris match."

Ashville, NH Test Tops on County Card

Ashville at New Holland will take the spotlight in county basketball action Friday night.

The Broncos currently are in command of second place in the county loop with six wins and one loss. New Holland is close on their heels with a 5-2 record, good enough for a third place deadlock with Scioto.

The battle should turn out to be a real struggle between New Holland's John Lininger and Ashville's Bobby Hoover, two of the finest centers in Pickaway County.

Lininger, a senior, holds an edge in experience but Hoover, a sophomore, plays with the ability of a four year veteran. Both are considered two of the best rebounders in this area.

• • •

OTHER games on the card are: Darby at Atlanta, Jackson at Monroe, Pickaway at Scioto, Saltcreek at Walnut, Amanda at Bremen, Gibisonville at Laurelville, Unioto at Kingston, Stoutsville at Carroll and Centralia at Kingston.

New Holland is scheduled for a contest with University High of Columbus Saturday night.

Thumper Denies Ankle Is Broken

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams and two doctors have quashed reports that the 39-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger's baseball career is endangered by a broken ankle.

Williams told Boston sports writers by phone from his Florida home Wednesday that he sprained the ankle on a fishing trip in Labrador last fall. He flatly denied any bones were broken.

Ted was backed up by Dr. George Bennett of Baltimore and Dr. Russell Sullivan of Boston, who viewed X-rays of the ankle.

Cincy Pro Cagers Swamp Syracuse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Syracuse Nationals and the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Assn. can testify today that there is an end to all good things, especially when you do not have the answer to 33-point quarters.

The Nationals saw their 13-game winning streak at home snapped Wednesday night as the Cincinnati Royals poured 33 points through the basket in the third period and went on to a 115-109 victory.

The New York Knickerbockers also tossed 33-point second and third quarters at the Pistons for 115-92 decision and the end of a home floor winning string that had reached six games.

Meantime, the Boston Celtics continued to make hay while the sun shines at Minneapolis, coming from behind for a 97-87 verdict and their ninth straight victory at the expense of the Lakers.

The Nats dropped their third home game in 19 appearances despite a 36-point performance by Dolph Schayes. Twenty-four of Schayes' points came in the first half for a club record. Clyde Lovellette finished with 27 points for the Royals, one more than Maurice Stokes.

The Knicks' victory, achieved with eight Knicks scoring in double figures topped by Charlie Tyra's 17, moved the New Yorkers into third place by two percentage points over idle Philadelphia in the Eastern Division.

The Lakers held a slim 70-68 lead over the Celtics going into the last quarter. But then the Eastern Division leaders tallied 17 while the Lakers were getting only four to move into a lead they never relinquished. Tom Heinsohn and Frank Ramsey each scored 24 points for Boston while Bob Cousy tallied 18 to become the fourth player in pro basketball history to join the 10,000-point club with 10,012.

League Leader Darby Holds Top Spot in Won-Lost Data

The Darby Trojans took over sole possession of first place in the win - loss column by defeating New Holland Friday night, the team that was tied with them for first. The Trojans have a .909 winning percentage followed by the Bulldogs with a .833 on 10 victories in 12 outings.

Scioto and Ashville have identical marks with 10 wins and four losses for a .714 average. Walnut with an 8-5 record and Williamsport even at 7-7 are the only County teams with averages at .500 or over.

The Scioto Buffaloes retained their lead in offensive averages with a 70.8 in 14 games. Darby and Ashville follow close behind with 68.9 and 68.7 averages respectively. Walnut, 63.2 and Williamsport, 63, hold fourth and fifth in the point column.

Though they absorbed their second loss of the season, the NH Bulldogs still are far out in front defensively, holding their opponents to an average of 39.5 points per game. Closest to the Dutchmen is league leading Darby with a 47.1 average.

• • •

PICKAWAY with a poor 4-9 season can be proud of its defensive average as opponents have only managed 53.8-points per game and this was good for third place in the County. Walnut is .8 of a point behind with a 54.5 average.

Monroe continues to lose and their defensive average mounts to 69.4 points per game as they can't seem to organize any type of a defense to reduce the opposition's points.

The Atlanta Red Raiders have scored the least amount points per game with 42, on the nose. Though Atlanta has the poorest offense in the County, its defense ranks sixth county-wise.

The largest spread by a winning team throughout the county was held by Darby, holding a margin of 21 points. The lowest was held by Scioto, defeating an opponent just six points per game.

On the opposite side of the ledger, Monroe has been defeated on the average of 21 points per game, while Atlanta with the same number of defeats, has been dropping contests by 16 points per game.

Board Control Giving Wolves Big 10 Lead

Conference Statistics Show Michigan Ahead In Rebound Average

CHICAGO (AP)—Control of the boards has been Michigan's password to the Big Ten basketball lead.

Official conference statistics show that the Wolverines rank fifth in field goal percentage with .356, but they are No. 1 in rebounds with an average of 52 recoveries in posting a 3-1 league record.

Ohio State, locked with Indiana in second place with 3-2, is second in rebounds with a 51 average while the Hoosiers are third with better than 46.

Michigan won't get back into conference action until it entertains Purdue Feb. 1, in a regionally televised game. Ohio State's next Big Ten start is against Purdue Monday. Indiana is idle in conference play until facing Minnesota Feb. 3.

Only two Big Ten games are slated Saturday, Iowa at Minnesota for an afternoon TV attraction and Northwestern at Michigan State. Illinois meets Notre Dame in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader show with Marquette facing Loyola of Chicago in the nightcap.

Lack of height resulting in the poorest rebound mark in the conference, an average of 31, reflects Illinois' last place standing with a 1-3 mark. The Illini are third in hitting field goals at a .384 clip and third in free throw shooting with .716.

The hottest shooting team is Indiana with .412 from the floor while Northwestern is next with .405. Indiana's .758 also tops the foul line accuracy with Michigan second with .736.

Indiana's Archie Dees leads the individual scoring with a 26.6 average, followed by Don Ohl of Illinois with 24.3, George Kline of Minnesota with 22.7 and Pete Tillotson of Michigan with 20.8.

Dees is tops in field goal accuracy with .589 and John Green of Michigan State is second with .520. Green, who is twentieth in the scoring race with a 14.5 mark, is first in grabbing rebounds. He has retrieved 74 in four games. Frank Howard of Ohio State has 75 and Dees 71 — both in five games.

Redlegs Say Parking Still Big Problem

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs still have their parking problems even though the city council voted Wednesday to authorize a $2 million bond issue to provide parking facilities.

The difficulty stemmed around the exact terms of an agreement between the city and the baseball club, although indications are all will be ironed out.

The city wants the baseball club to agree to remain here for at least five years. The original proposal was that the club would be liable for $2 million if it abrogated the agreement.

The ball club wants the city to agree not to raise the three per cent admissions tax during the five years and to agree to spend $2 million for parking space, not just provide 2,600 parking spaces.

Council members deferred action on the agreement because of differences over the admissions tax clause and the $2 million expenditure clause.

The ball club had proposed it be relieved of its obligations if the tax should be increased. It also asked for the expenditure of $2 million on the theory the expenditure of that amount of money might provide even more parking space.

Mayor Donald P. Clancy said the bonds would not be issued until the agreement with the ball club is signed. He said the bond issue ordinance could be repealed.

Ashville, Deers Meet in Finals

By J. I. SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

In the Pickaway County Junior High tournament last night Wayne fell by the wayside at the hands of a polished Ashville quintet, 47 - 26. Williamsport utilized a fast break to come from behind in the third quarter and cemented a berth in the finals with a 38 to 27 win over Darby.

In the first game of the evening at Jackson Twp. gym, the Williamsport Deers shot ahead in the first quarter to take a 11-3 lead. The Trojans didn't get a field goal attempt until 2½ minutes remained in the period as the Deers monopolized the ball and both bankboards.

Both teams posted identical scores in the second quarter and Williamsport remained on top, 15-7. Darby couldn't settle down in the first half and committed too many turnovers which the Deers capitalized on.

Led by Bobby McPherson, who handled the ball as if he were varsity material, the Trojans rallied early in the third period to go ahead 18-15, before Williamsport could score. The Deers settled down after the opening shock wore off and regained the margin to lead at the three quarter mark, 25-18.

• • •

THE DEERS were kept in the game all the way by the stellar play of their center, Donny Steinhauser, who garnered 19 points during the game. Steinhauser was especially effective under the bankboards and made the difference between victory and defeat for Williamsport.

Coach John McPherson's son, Bobby, was the entire Darby team as he garnered 15 points, masterminded their attack, and at times dribbled through the entire Williamsport squad for a score. McPherson's favorite was a driving jump shot for which most Trojan stars are famous.

Williamsport shot 32 per cent from the field, making 16 of 49 attempts. They had a 46 per cent average from the free throw line sinking six of 13 opportunities.

Darby also attempted 49 shots, but only made 11 for a 22 per cent average. They had a very poor showing from the charity line, dunking five of 18 chances.

In the second game of the evening the Ashville Broncos downed a scrappy and overloaded Wayne team, 47-26. Wayne brought along 22 players for last night's game.

The Broncos jumped to a 13-8 first quarter lead as they displayed cage ability not seen too often in seventh and eighth grade contests. Dick Hollenback was the star attraction for Ashville as he shot from anywhere on the court with amazing accuracy, and made eight of nine shots at the free throw line. He set a new County free throw record last Monday when he sunk 23 of 25 chances in the foul shooting contest.

• • •

WAYNE was handicapped all through the game by over-anxiousness and committed too many fouls which Ashville was capitalized on. The Broncos shot 62 per cent from the charity line.

In the second quarter Ashville tallied 13 points to take a 26-10 lead at halftime as Wayne shot six per cent from the field, scoring only two points on Bill Giffin's tip-ins. The Broncos Tommy Rathburn made a big difference in the game as he towered over everyone with his six feet plus frame. Tom is much taller than his brother Don who is a member of Ashville's varsity starters.

Wayne still couldn't get started in the third period and trailed 40-16 at the three quarter mark. The ball game wouldn't have been too much of a contest had it not been for the three sets of brothers that participated. Between Ashville's Hollenbacks and Rathburns along with Wayne's Moores, a total of 44 points was scored out of 73 for both teams.

Wayne finally managed to outscore the Broncos in the final period, 10-7 as both teams substituted freely. Ashville shot 33 per cent from the field, scoring 16 buckets on 48 attempts.

Wayne didn't have too much luck from the field as they dropped in 11 of 65 attempts for 17 per cent. At least they can say they weren't afraid to shoot, cause many varsity coaches in the county would be amazed if they could persuade their boys to shoot as often. They had a 23 per cent free throw average.

Hollenback and Rathburn led the scoring for Ashville with 18 points each. Giffin led Wayne with 11, garnering seven in the fourth quarter.

The finals to be held at Jackson Saturday night will begin at 7 p. m. Ashville will meet Williamsport for the championship and Darby goes against Wayne in the consolation contest.

Paul Brown Plans Another Special Quarterback Trial

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Paul Brown has announced that there will be an early training session for Cleveland Browns quarterback candidates next summer—for the third straight year.

He revealed the plan Wednesday night following receipt of a letter from quarterback Tommy O'Connell confirming the latter's intention of retiring from professional football and joining the University of Illinois coaching staff.

Milt Plum, regarded by Brown at the moment as the No. 1 quarterback, goes into the service for a six-month hitch within a couple of weeks. Other signal callers available include John Borton and Bobby Freeman, back from the 1957 squad, and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State, George Walker of Arkansas and Bob Winters of Utah State, all rookies.

Local Guard Unit Downs Service Co.

Circleville's Company I, Ohio National Guard cage team, blasted regimental service company, 147-68, in a runaway contest at the local armory last night.

The local guardsmen were paced by Ronnie Seall with 36 points, Bill Downs with 35 and Cecil Sowers with 32. Service company was led by D. Foreman with 23 tallies.

Texas A&M OKs Myers as Grid Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M College pulled the biggest surprise of its widespread hunt for a football coach Wednesday. It hired Jim Myers of Iowa State, a single-wing stylist who was once rejected.

Numerous other coaches had been mentioned as a possible successor to Paul (Bear) Bryant, who returned to Alabama, his alma mater.

The 51-day search for a coach and athletic director erupted into controversy between Aggie officials who seemed ready to interview anyone who would take the trip to Texas and alumni groups angered by what they considered bad publicity.

Two students, Gary Rollins of Houston, Tex., and John Hagler, La Grande, Tex., were credited with a key role in getting Myers to change his mind and accept the $16,000-a-year post, which also includes rent-free use of a house. He was given a four-year contract.

"They were dynamic, impressive young men with a sparkle in their eye, and they sold me, really," Myers said at Ames, Iowa. The two students headed a "get Myers" campaign among the student body.

Ashville, NH Test Tops on County Card

Ashville at New Holland will take the spotlight in county basketball action Friday night.

The Broncos currently are in command of second place in the county loop with six wins and one loss. New Holland is close on their heels with a 5-2 record, good enough for a third place deadlock with Scioto.

The battle should turn out to be a real struggle between New Holland's John Lininger and Ashville's Bobby Hoover, two of the finest centers in Pickaway County.

Lininger, a senior, holds an edge in experience but Hoover, a sophomore, plays with the ability of a four year veteran. Both are considered two of the best rebounders in this area.

• • •

OTHER games on the card are: Darby at Atlanta, Jackson at Monroe, Pickaway at Scioto, Saltcreek at Walnut, Amanda at Bremen, Gibisonville at Laurelville, Unioto at Kingston, Stoutsville at Carroll and Centralia at Kingston.

New Holland is scheduled for a contest with University High of Columbus Saturday night.

Defeat by Auburn Viewed As Just What Tech Needed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It might sound screwy, but maybe Georgia Tech has lost just in time to win in college basketball.

Could be the 80-72 upset by Auburn Wednesday night was just what Tech needed before taking on Kentucky and Tennessee, running 1-2 in the Southeastern Conference, this weekend.

The defeat didn't hurt the Yellow Jackets (10-6). It was a non-conference game. But it should have ploughed under any signs of complacency that may have cropped up after four consecutive victories.

There already had been some talk Tech might be ready to pull another giant upset. Vanderbilt Coach Bob Polk, beaten 81-60 by Tech last Saturday, was so impressed he figured Tech could beat Tennessee Saturday and then take Kentucky Monday.

That double kill would hoist Tech from third (4-2) to second in SEC play. Kentucky is the leader at 5-0 with Tennessee second at 3-1.

The upset came on a light night that also saw St. Bonaventure defeat Niagara 69-66 and Duquesne whip Toledo 67-54.

A great floor game and a 30-point scoring touch by Jimmy Lee paid off for Auburn, now 6-6.

Rex Frederick, Auburn's high scorer tied it 45-all with a free throw and seconds later gave Auburn the lead for keeps with a field goal just before he fouled out.

Terry Randall kept Tech in the game until the closing minutes. He was high for the Engineers with 20 points. Soph Dave Denton, who has sparked Tech's surge since regaining his eligibility, scored 19.

The schedule — marking time during mid-term examinations—picks up a bit tonight. The feature game is Wichita at Bradley in a Missouri Valley Conference game. Wichita is the leader at 3-0 with Bradley, ranked 10th nationally, third at 6-1.

IBC Seeking Heavyweight Action Anew

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, wants the heavyweight division activated again and disclaims any feuding with champion Floyd Patterson's manager.

"D'Amato (Manager Cus D'Amato) says he won't do business with the IBC because we failed to live up to an agreement to get bouts for some of his preliminary fighters," said Norris. "Patterson simply is being used as a pawn in this thing, but I say let D'Amato go box for any promoter he wants (and I'd like a chance to compete with any other promoter) but let's get the heavyweight division activated again.

"Our hands are tied by D'Amato's refusal to sit down and talk," Norris continued. "I'm certainly not feuding with him. In this business, you can't afford feuds. I'd go to Alaska to make a heavyweight title match.

"Patterson already should have faced Eddie Machen or Zora Folley, who meet March 17 at San Francisco. And then, if he won, he could meet the winner of the Willie Pastrano-Roy Harris match."

Thumper Denies Ankle Is Broken

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams and two doctors have quashed reports that the 39-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger's baseball career is endangered by a broken ankle.

Williams told Boston sports writers by phone from his Florida home Wednesday that he sprained the ankle on a fishing trip in Labrador last fall. He flatly denied any bones were broken.

Ted was backed up by Dr. George Bennett of Baltimore and Dr. Russell Sullivan of Boston, who viewed X-rays of the ankle.

Cincy Pro Cagers Swamp Syracuse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Syracuse Nationals and the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Assn. can testify today that there is an end to all good things, especially when you do not have the answer to 33-point quarters.

The Nationals saw their 13-game winning streak at home snapped Wednesday night as the Cincinnati Royals poured 33 points through the basket in the third period and went on to a 115-109 victory.

The New York Knickerbockers also tossed 33-point second and third quarters at the Pistons for 115-92 decision and the end of a home floor winning string that had reached six games.

Meantime, the Boston Celtics continued to make hay while the sun shines at Minneapolis, coming from behind for a 97-87 verdict and their ninth straight victory at the expense of the Lakers.

The Nats dropped their third home game in 19 appearances despite a 36-point performance by Dolph Schayes. Twenty-four of Schayes' points came in the first half for a club record. Clyde Lovellette finished with 27 points for the Royals, one more than Maurice Stokes.

The Knicks' victory, achieved with eight Knicks scoring in double figures topped by Charlie Tyra's 17, moved the New Yorkers into third place by two percentage points over idle Philadelphia in the Eastern Division.

The Lakers held a slim 70-68 lead over the Celtics going into the last quarter. But then the Eastern Division leaders tallied 17 while the Lakers were getting only four to move into a lead they never relinquished. Tom Heinsohn and Frank Ramsey each scored 24 points for Boston while Bob Cousy tallied 18 to become the fourth player in pro basketball history to join the 10,000-point club with 10,012.

League Leader Darby Holds Top Spot in Won-Lost Data

The Darby Trojans took over sole possession of first place in the win - loss column by defeating New Holland Friday night, the team that was tied with them for first. The Trojans have a .909 winning percentage followed by the Bulldogs with a .833 on 10 victories in 12 outings.

Scioto and Ashville have identical marks with 10 wins and four losses for a .714 average. Walnut with an 8-5 record and Williamsport even at 7-7 are the only County teams with averages at .500 or over.

The Scioto Buffaloes retained their lead in offensive averages with a 70.8 in 14 games. Darby and Ashville follow close behind with 68.9 and 68.7 averages respectively. Walnut, 63.2 and Williamsport, 63, hold fourth and fifth in the point column.

Though they absorbed their second loss of the season, the NH Bulldogs still are far out in front defensively, holding their opponents to an average of 39.5 points per game. Closest to the Dutchmen is league leading Darby with a 47.1 average.

• • •

PICKAWAY with a poor 4-9 season can be proud of its defensive average as opponents have only managed 53.8-points per game and this was good for third place in the County. Walnut is .8 of a point behind with a 54.5 average.

Monroe continues to lose and their defensive average mounts to 69.4 points per game as they can't seem to organize any type of a defense to reduce the opposition's points.

The Atlanta Red Raiders have scored the least amount points per game with 42, on the nose. Though Atlanta has the poorest offense in the County, its defense ranks sixth county-wise.

The largest spread by a winning team throughout the county was held by Darby, holding a margin of 21 points. The lowest was held by Scioto, defeating an opponent just six points per game.

On the opposite side of the ledger, Monroe has been defeated on the average of 21 points per game, while Atlanta with the same number of defeats, has been dropping contests by 16 points per game.

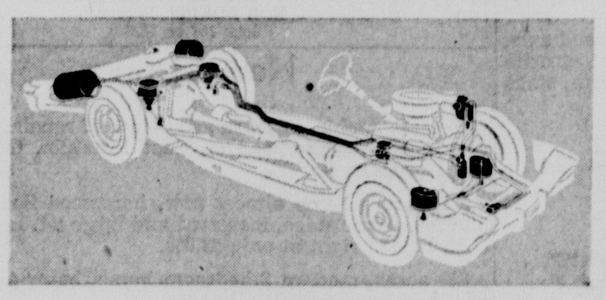
All '58 Oldsmobiles feature Safety Plate Glass all around!

You don't have to look twice to tell it's a '58!



For the finest performance, Oldsmobile's New-Matic Ride is an exclusive "closed-system" (shown above). Carefully-filtered air is pumped into high-pressure tank (behind right rear wheel), ready for instant use as air chambers (at wheels) require. Air then circulates to low-pressure storage tank (behind left rear wheel), ready for future use. Air springs (one at each wheel) replace conventional metal springs.

...It's Oldsmobile's True Air Suspension!

Here's the greatest improvement in riding comfort since they first put air in tires! Oldsmobile's New-Matic Ride puts four air cushions between you and the road... giving you the smoothest, softest, most relaxing ride you've ever experienced!

New-Matic Ride is different from any other "air ride"! It's designed exclusively for Olds! No matter how heavy or one-sided the load, New-Matic Ride instantly and automatically returns the body to "design height." You ride on-the-level all the time. There's super-softness when the going is easy... firm control when the going is rough!

Try New-Matic Ride today! Come in and see the magnificent new Oldsmobile and get all the facts on New-Matic Ride. Sample, too, the reserve power of the great new Rocket Engine. You'll appreciate the newest in high-compression performance—delivering all the power you can use, plus new fuel economy, too! And you'll love the luxury and distinction of Oldsmobile's brilliant new styling!

So make a date with a Rocket 88! Experience the freedom-to-go feeling of OLDSmobility... try the superb smoothness of New-Matic Ride. It's the new concept of surface travel for the Rocket Age... and it's available only at your Oldsmobile Dealer's! *Optional at extra cost.

Your Income Tax Report--No. 4

Exemptions Are Taxpayer's Best Friend—Keep 'em

Editor's Note: Fourth in a series of eight articles, this story tells how you can make sure you are getting credit for every exemption you are entitled to on your income tax return. Be sure to save it for reference when you make out your return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Exemptions are wonderful things. They can even make you love your mother-in-law.

Every exemption you claim knocks $600 right off the top of your gross income, making it tax free. Since the amount for each exemption is so large, the rules are precise and rigid. Within those rules, however, you should claim every exemption to which you are entitled.

There are three types of exemptions: for yourself, or for yourself and spouse if you are filing a joint return; for your children, and for "others." That's the order in which they appear on your income tax forms, so that is the order in which they'll be taken up here.

Each taxpayer gets at least one exemption for himself. He is entitled to another if he is 65 or over (even if he reached his 65th birthday on the last day of 1957). And he is entitled to still another if he is blind.

The same rules apply to married couples who file joint returns. If both are 65 or over they are entitled to four exemptions; if one is 65 or over and the other is under that age, they get three exemptions.

Now, about the children. The big thing here is that— to be claimed as an exemption— they must have received more than half their support from you during the tax year.

You can claim one exemption for each child, stepchild or legally adopted child who was not more than 18 years old at any time during the tax year. Within this age group it doesn't matter how much income the child had, so long as you paid more than half of his or her support.

If the child reached age 19 during the tax year or is even older you may still claim an exemption if he or she is a full-time student or had a taxable income of less than $600 for the year— and still providing that you paid more than half the support costs.

In addition to exemptions for yourself, your spouse and your children, you may claim other dependents whether or not they are related to you. These dependents, however, have to meet some pretty stiff requirements.

To qualify as exemptions for you these dependents must:

1. Have received less than $600 in total reportable income during 1957;

2. Have received more than half their support from you;

3. Have not filed a joint return for 1957 with their spouse;

4. Be a citizen or resident of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama or the Canal Zone; and

5. Either have been a member of your household for the entire taxable year, or be related to you. If you are filing a joint return, they may be related to either husband or wife.

Relatives who may qualify under these provisions are: mother, father, mother - in - law, father-in - law, brother, sister, step-brother, stepsister, brother - in - law, sister-in-law, son - in - law, daughter - in - law, stepmother, stepfather, grandparents, grandchildren or— when related by blood— aunt, uncle, niece or nephew.

Note that rule 5 above says they must either have been a member of your household for the entire tax year, or must be related to you. Thus, a foster child would not qualify as a relative, but might qualify if he or she had spent the entire year in your household and met the other provisions as to income, age, support, etc.

And the Internal Revenue Service warns you not to try to list the maid or the butler— servants are not considered part of the household.

You may have noted above that one of the provisions for claiming an exemption is that the dependent does not have a reportable income of $600 or more during the year. We'll go into this in greater detail in the next article, but it might be well to point out here that not all income need be reported.

Social security payments, for instance, are tax - free and need not be reported, and so are most inheritances and death benefits from insurance policies.

Suppose you have a child aged 19 or more who had taxable income of less than $600 for the year, but who received $1,000 in death benefits from an insurance policy. That $1,000 wouldn't count against the exemption— but you would still have to show that you paid more than half the support costs during the year. If the child used the $1,000 to pay his or her own support costs, you lose the exemption regardless of whether the $1,000 is tax - free, unless you contributed more than $1,000 additional to the support costs.

There is one more thing to be considered while we're discussing exemptions— the case where several persons together contribute more than half the support of an individual during the year, but no one alone contributed more than half. That might be the case where four brothers chipped in equally to support a widowed mother.

One of the taxpayers concerned may claim the supported person as an exemption if:

1. The supported person meets the requirements for a dependent (as outlined above);

2. The person claiming the exemption contributed more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support; and

3. Each other person in the group files a statement with the IRS declaring that he or she is not claiming the same exemption for the same tax year.

In this way, each member of the group may take his turn in claiming an exemption to which none of the group would ordinarily be entitled.

The next article will outline the income you have to declare, that which is tax - free, and the exclusions you may claim.

Bill Collector Being Sued For $10,000

LORAIN (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Petrosky has filed suit for $10,000 against a bill collector she says harassed her over a $100 debt.

The suit said Howard D. Sloan, Lorain collection agency operator, had harassed Mrs. Petrosky with five demand notices, numerous threatening letters, 15 telephone calls and threat of garnished proceedings against her husband's employer.

The result, said Mrs. Petrosky in her suit, was that she was made nervous, suffered headaches and knots in her stomach and found her home life upset.

She asked that Sloan and the M. O'Neil Co., to whom she owed the money, be enjoined from further harassment and that she be awarded $10,000 for her suffering.

She asked also that the defendants be ordered to "sue and collect by legal means and cease acts which destroy the privacy of the plaintiff."

Pineau Says France To OK Missile Bases

PARIS (AP)—French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau has told the National Assembly that the government has little choice but to accept American offers of intermediate range nuclear missile launching ramps on French soil.

The decision to place missile launching sites in Western Europe was made in December at the summit conference of NATO. It was left to the military commanders to recommend in which countries missile bases would be built.

Chicago Hails Maria Callas

No Catcalls Heard, Only Loud 'Bravo'

CHICAGO (AP)—If Maria Meneghini-Callas had any echo in her ear of the fiasco attending her Rome Opera appearance, it vanished Wednesday night in a thunderous 10-minute ovation that set the Civic Opera House vibrating with shouts of "Bravo!"

The concert sponsored by the Alliance Francaise brought her back to the scene of her first American triumph and also marked her first appearance since the Rome revolt Jan. 2.

At times, the audience appeared unable to wait for her to conclude an aria before beginning an outpouring of adoration. There were no catcalls and whistles such as she received at Rome.

In the Rome Opera, singing the title role in Bellini's "Norma," the audience reaction caused her to quit after the first act. She claimed she was ill. Critics said she lost her voice and then her temper.

But Wednesday night, the 34-year-old diva seemed beyond annoyance.

Strikingly gowned in black velvet, a stole wrapped around her shoulders, she presented a stunning picture as she stood before the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

At the concert's end, a huge bouquet of long-stemmed roses was placed in her arms. Then a second bouquet of lilies. And finally, a third bouquet of pink roses, which was set at her feet.

Taking leave of the crowd of 3,750, she was met in the wings by her husband, multimillionaire Italian manufacturer Giovanni Battista Meneghini.

To a newsman who confronted her, she bubbled: "What can I say? I am so very happy. There is no more to say."

The critics' reactions were mixed.

"This was Callas at her crest," wrote Claudia Cassidy, Chicago Tribune.

"At half-voice, there was the ravishing sound of yore . . . . but when — in Verdi arias from 'Macbeth' and 'Nabucco' — she had to be a dramatic soprano, the voice got pushed beyond beauty and steadiness," wrote Rogger Dettmer, Chicago American.

Likes the New

MATHEWS, Va. (AP)—It isn't the old customs for which J. Eddie Callis longs—he likes the new.

His views are easy to understand, too. One new custom was started a year ago when Callis, 81, and a retired contractor, was kissed 81 times by dozens of pretty girls here. This year it was 82 times.

Your Income Tax Report--No. 4

Exemptions Are Taxpayer's Best Friend—Keep 'em

Editor's Note: Fourth in a series of eight articles, this story tells how you can make sure you are getting credit for every exemption you are entitled to on your income tax return. Be sure to save it for reference when you make out your return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Exemptions are wonderful things. They can even make you love your mother-in-law.

Every exemption you claim knocks $600 right off the top of your gross income, making it tax free. Since the amount for each exemption is so large, the rules are precise and rigid. Within those rules, however, you should claim every exemption to which you are entitled.

There are three types of exemptions: for yourself, or for yourself and spouse if you are filing a joint return; for your children, and for "others." That's the order in which they appear on your income tax forms, so that is the order in which they'll be taken up here.

Each taxpayer gets at least one exemption for himself. He is entitled to another if he is 65 or over (even if he reached his 65th birthday on the last day of 1957). And he is entitled to still another if he is blind.

The same rules apply to married couples who file joint returns. If both are 65 or over they are entitled to four exemptions; if one is 65 or over and the other is under that age, they get three exemptions.

Now, about the children. The big thing here is that— to be claimed as an exemption— they must have received more than half their support from you during the tax year.

You can claim one exemption for each child, stepchild or legally adopted child who was not more than 18 years old at any time during the tax year. Within this age group it doesn't matter how much income the child had, so long as you paid more than half of his or her support.

If the child reached age 19 during the tax year or is even older you may still claim an exemption if he or she is a full-time student or had a taxable income of less than $600 for the year— and still providing that you paid more than half the support costs.

In addition to exemptions for yourself, your spouse and your children, you may claim other dependents whether or not they are related to you. These dependents, however, have to meet some pretty stiff requirements.

To qualify as exemptions for you these dependents must:

1. Have received less than $600 in total reportable income during 1957;

2. Have received more than half their support from you;

3. Have not filed a joint return for 1957 with their spouse;

4. Be a citizen or resident of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama or the Canal Zone; and

5. Either have been a member of your household for the entire taxable year, or be related to you. If you are filing a joint return, they may be related to either husband or wife.

Relatives who may qualify under these provisions are: mother, father, mother - in - law, father-in - law, brother, sister, step-brother, stepsister, brother - in - law, sister-in-law, son - in - law, daughter - in - law, stepmother, stepfather, grandparents, grandchildren or— when related by blood— aunt, uncle, niece or nephew.

Note that rule 5 above says they must either have been a member of your household for the entire tax year, or must be related to you. Thus, a foster child would not qualify as a relative, but might qualify if he or she had spent the entire year in your household and met the other provisions as to income, age, support, etc.

And the Internal Revenue Service warns you not to try to list the maid or the butler— servants are not considered part of the household.

You may have noted above that one of the provisions for claiming an exemption is that the dependent does not have a reportable income of $600 or more during the year. We'll go into this in greater detail in the next article, but it might be well to point out here that not all income need be reported.

Social security payments, for instance, are tax - free and need not be reported, and so are most inheritances and death benefits from insurance policies.

Suppose you have a child aged 19 or more who had taxable income of less than $600 for the year, but who received $1,000 in death benefits from an insurance policy. That $1,000 wouldn't count against the exemption— but you would still have to show that you paid more than half the support costs during the year. If the child used the $1,000 to pay his or her own support costs, you lose the exemption regardless of whether the $1,000 is tax - free, unless you contributed more than $1,000 additional to the support costs.

There is one more thing to be considered while we're discussing exemptions— the case where several persons together contribute more than half the support of an individual during the year, but no one alone contributed more than half. That might be the case where four brothers chipped in equally to support a widowed mother.

One of the taxpayers concerned may claim the supported person as an exemption if:

1. The supported person meets the requirements for a dependent (as outlined above);

2. The person claiming the exemption contributed more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support; and

3. Each other person in the group files a statement with the IRS declaring that he or she is not claiming the same exemption for the same tax year.

In this way, each member of the group may take his turn in claiming an exemption to which none of the group would ordinarily be entitled.

The next article will outline the income you have to declare, that which is tax - free, and the exclusions you may claim.

Bill Collector Being Sued For $10,000

LORAIN (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Petrosky has filed suit for $10,000 against a bill collector she says harassed her over a $100 debt.

The suit said Howard D. Sloan, Lorain collection agency operator, had harassed Mrs. Petrosky with five demand notices, numerous threatening letters, 15 telephone calls and threat of garnished proceedings against her husband's employer.

The result, said Mrs. Petrosky in her suit, was that she was made nervous, suffered headaches and knots in her stomach and found her home life upset.

She asked that Sloan and the M. O'Neil Co., to whom she owed the money, be enjoined from further harassment and that she be awarded $10,000 for her suffering.

She asked also that the defendants be ordered to "sue and collect by legal means and cease acts which destroy the privacy of the plaintiff."

Chicago Hails Maria Callas

No Catcalls Heard, Only Loud 'Bravo'

CHICAGO (AP)—If Maria Meneghini-Callas had any echo in her ear of the fiasco attending her Rome Opera appearance, it vanished Wednesday night in a thunderous 10-minute ovation that set the Civic Opera House vibrating with shouts of "Bravo!"

The concert sponsored by the Alliance Francaise brought her back to the scene of her first American triumph and also marked her first appearance since the Rome revolt Jan. 2.

At times, the audience appeared unable to wait for her to conclude an aria before beginning an outpouring of adoration. There were no catcalls and whistles such as she received at Rome.

In the Rome Opera, singing the title role in Bellini's "Norma," the audience reaction caused her to quit after the first act. She claimed she was ill. Critics said she lost her voice and then her temper.

But Wednesday night, the 34-year-old diva seemed beyond annoyance.

Strikingly gowned in black velvet, a stole wrapped around her shoulders, she presented a stunning picture as she stood before the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

At the concert's end, a huge bouquet of long-stemmed roses was placed in her arms. Then a second bouquet of lilies. And finally, a third bouquet of pink roses, which was set at her feet.

Taking leave of the crowd of 3,750, she was met in the wings by her husband, multimillionaire Italian manufacturer Giovanni Battista Meneghini.

To a newsman who confronted her, she bubbled: "What can I say? I am so very happy. There is no more to say."

The critics' reactions were mixed.

"This was Callas at her crest," wrote Claudia Cassidy, Chicago Tribune.

"At half-voice, there was the ravishing sound of yore . . . . but when — in Verdi arias from 'Macbeth' and 'Nabucco' — she had to be a dramatic soprano, the voice got pushed beyond beauty and steadiness," wrote Rogger Dettmer, Chicago American.

Likes the New

MATHEWS, Va. (AP)—It isn't the old customs for which J. Eddie Callis longs—he likes the new.

His views are easy to understand, too. One new custom was started a year ago when Callis, 81, and a retired contractor, was kissed 81 times by dozens of pretty girls here. This year it was 82 times.

Pineau Says France To OK Missile Bases

PARIS (AP)—French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau has told the National Assembly that the government has little choice but to accept American offers of intermediate range nuclear missile launching ramps on French soil.

The decision to place missile launching sites in Western Europe was made in December at the summit conference of NATO. It was left to the military commanders to recommend in which countries missile bases would be built.

Defense Chief's Fear Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee was questioning Secretary of Defense McElroy when Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) produced a full-page advertisement from a service publication.

"Successful company offers you the best opportunity for a successful career," said the advertisement addressed to servicemen.

McElroy, former president of Procter & Gamble, commented he hopes better service pay and other incentives will help meet competition of industry, and added: "I was afraid you were going to show me a Procter & Gamble ad."

"I did," said Kilday.

Business Promotion Cutback Said Unwise

CINCINNATI (AP)—The editor in chief of "The Iron Age", a steel industry journal, says he thinks American business will pull out of a current recession "within the next five to six months."

Tom Campbell told members of the Cincinnati Industrial Advertisers Tuesday that he figures defense spending and an expected end to inventory cutting will help halt the downward trend.
